ITALIAN FLEET REACHES ALLIED PORTS

NAZI RETREAT NEARING ROUT NEAR DNIEPER

Whole German Defense East of River Threatened by Red Advance.

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Sept. 11—Battering the fleeing German legions along a 200-mile front from the sea of Azov to Bryansk at the northern end of the Ukraine, Red army troops have imperiled the entire Nazi defense system east of the Dnieper river and are threatening the vital remaining escape corridor of the Crimean garrisons.

Sledge-hammer Russian blows reported today turned the German retreat in many places into a rout.

Mariupol, important port on the sea of Azov, and Chaplino, rail junction 60 miles from Dniepropetrovsk—were stormed and taken by the Soviets.

Russian naval forces from the sea of Azov and airborne troops participated in the capture of Mariupol.

Yelizavetha, on the Stalino-Mariupol railway and Barvenovo, midway between Stalino and Kharkov, also were captured in the day's advance. Fall of Chaplino posed an immediate threat to Zaporozhe.

In the north, the Germans fell back from their Desna river defenses near Novgorod Seversky. Here the Red army troops apparently were heading for Gomel, 100 miles to the northwest.

Still further north in the Bryansk area, incessant blows by Red infantry and motorists units forced the Nazis back so fast that they were unable to lay minefields. Huge stacks of mines were found along the roads used by the fleeing enemy, the Moscow war bulletin said.

The outstanding victories of yesterday's advance brought a special order of the day from Premier Joseph Stalin. He ordered another 124-gun salute in honor of the troops, and heaped more praise upon Gen. Rodiony Malinovsky, commander of the southwest army groups, and his next-in-command, Col. Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukhin, already cited for their part in the capture of Stalino.

3rd War Loan Sales Total In County Mounts To $480,203

Second Day Raises Amount To 18 Per Cent of Goal; Aid of Every Resident Urged for Final Success.

Sales on the second day of the Third War Loan campaign in Marion county swelled the total to $480,203.75, a checkup at the campaign headquarters on North State street showed this morning.

This is more than 18 per cent of the county's $2,629,000 goal, and gives the workers what their leaders considered a satisfactory start.

However, the "long pull" is ahead, leaders warned, pointing out that there will be days during the campaign when corporation purchases are bound to be light, leaving the job of "carrying the ball" to individual purchasers. "That's why we're asking every Marion county resident to help put the drive over," the leaders explained.

Along with yesterday's substantial addition to the drive total came other important developments that brought cheer to Robert E. White, campaign chairman.

Women To Aid

One was the assurance given by the executive committee of the Women's Division of the Marion War Finance committee, at a meeting in Hotel Harding yesterday, that the women's organization, numbering several hundred, is ready to swing into action whenever needed. Leaders asked them if they would be willing to handle all call-backs in the campaign, and the group accepted the assignment at once.

Present at the meeting, at which W. C. Doody of Cleveland, area war bond sales representative and Louis E. Michel, committee secretary, were speakers, were Mrs. Hugo Malo, Mrs. Cleon Williams, Mrs. John T. McNamara, Mrs. Clarence Weber, Mrs. J. D. Williamson, Mrs. Walter C. Bailey, Miss Maud Gorham, chairman of the women's division, Mrs. David Coble, Miss Dorothy Haynes, Mrs. J. A. Burgin and Mrs. Harold C. Thomas.

Campaign at Factory

Another development came last night when a committee of 70 persons that will contact every Marion Steam Shovel Co. worker with an appeal for two weeks' pay for war bonds before the Third War Loan drive ends on Sept. 30 met at the company's office to outline campaign plans.

The meeting, in charge of E. L. Cleveland, chairman of the war bond committee for the company, included a talk by E. Paul Bachman, who explained the various types of bonds offered for sale in the Third War Loan drive, and a question and answer period. Supplies for workers were distributed.

Others on the company committee heading up the group of 75 campaign workers are R. E. Bailey, L. D. May Jr., W. K. Hamor, O. V. Levien and G. B. Heffelfinger.

The company is shooting for a goal of half of its monthly payroll.

Rotary Sale Report

Another encouraging report came from E. C. Dee, chairman of the Marion Rotary club committee heading that club's sale of $100 war bond tickets to the benefit show to be given Thursday night at the Palace theater. He reported preliminary reports showed sales totaling $100,000, or more than two-thirds of the seating capacity of the theater. Banks have some of the Rotary tickets, and they also may be bought at the theater, as well as from any Rotary club member.

National Sale Larger

Meanwhile, national drive headquarters in Washington reported first response to the treasury's $15,000,000,000 Third War Loan appeal has been "unre-

SALERNO TAKEN BY U. S. TROOPS IN NAPLES AREA

German Attacks Beaten Off; More Troops and Supplies Landed.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11—The American Fifth Army has seized the port of Salerno and thrown back several more German armored attacks to deepen its wedge in the Naples area, allied headquarters announced today, while chaos reigned throughout Italy and Berlin reported pitched battles between Germans and Italians in the north.

Smashing aerial assaults have prevented "the enemy from getting reinforcements over badly-battered highways and railroads" to the Naples sector, and a large portion of Italy's capital naval strength, including battleships and cruisers, reached the safety of Malta, official reports said.

Crack Nazi armored units lunged in several fierce counter-assaults against Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's American and British invaders at Salerno Friday, but these were broken and the allies drove inland.

Several pockets of enemy resistance have been wiped out, and prisoners now total several hundred, all Germans. There are no Italians reported fighting in this area. Salerno (population 50,000) is one of the larger provincial cities of southern Italy.

German Convoys Attacked

Besides knocking out Nazi reinforcement lines in a 60-mile arc around Naples, headquarters aerial reports said, allied planes attacked German convoys moving northward toward the Naples-Salerno districts, indicating a German withdrawal from areas farther south to escape possible entrapment and throw greater weight against the Fifth Army bridgehead.

U. S. units of the Fifth Army bore the brunt of the German resistance during landings at Salerno, and stiff fighting raged on the beaches. Five Nazi counter-blows were blunted on Thursday.

British units encountered comparatively little resistance in their landings some distance away, but later were attacked by German tanks which they repulsed.

Naval guns supported ground troops at Salerno. The bridgehead is now firmly established, headquarters declared.

Meanwhile in the south the British Eighth army met little opposition and despite demolitions went ahead more rapidly, now holding practically all the territory south of the bottleneck formed by the gulf of Squillace and the gulf of Santa Eufemia.

This forms practically all the toe of Italy.

Taranto Occupied

The British force at Taranto completed occupation of that naval base and town. Most of the Germans were reported to have evacuated the city before the landing, and the population was said to have cheered the British.

Italians did not oppose a small allied force landing on the island of Ventotene off Naples, but the Germans there surrendered only after a fierce fight, and 91 were captured.

(A British broadcast heard by CBS said Berlin had announced annulment of Croatia's treaty with Italy guaranteeing Croatia's independence, and cancellation of the offer of the Croat crown to the Italian Prince of Aosta. It added the Zagreb radio had appealed to Croats "to support the Germans in their struggle against the Italians.")

The Germans were throwing more aviation into the battle of Italy, and attempted to bomb the Fifth army troops.

Latest reports said the Italians were resisting the Nazis at Turin, and that four companies of German shock troops had been wiped out there.

The Germans said a new puppet Italian Fascist government had taken over power, but the indications were it would get little popular support for any program to continue Italy in the war.

While many reports conflicted, one thing seemed certain — Italy has become just another country occupied by the Germans who apparently propose to make it a major battlefield.

Foggia Bombed Again

For the second straight day, American Liberator bombers from the Middle East returned to the Foggia area, across the Italian peninsula opposite Naples, and attacked the Satellite landing ground at Palmori, a Cairo communique said.

The bombers shot down one of several attacking enemy fighters, the communique said. Three

DEADLINE NEAR FOR INCOME TAX REPORTS

Many Must Make Returns by Next Wednesday.

A reminder that the income tax filing deadline for scores of Marion county residents will fall next Wednesday was issued today at the office of H. D. Sherrer, deputy internal revenue collector with offices in the Citizens Building.

An estimated two-thirds of the persons who filed returns in March will be required to fill out the new forms which were distributed by mail several weeks ago.

Mr. Sherrer pointed out that three things determine whether a second report must be made. First, he said, single men earning over $2,700 a year or married men making over $3,500 will be required to complete the form. A person earning an income on which no withholding is made or a person earning in excess of $100 a year from rentals, dividends, interest, etc., will also be required to file a second return. Probably more returns will be filed on the former point than on any other phase of the entire regulation, Mr. Sherrer said. This classification includes doctors, lawyers and all others who are not employed on a salary basis. The third factor governing the filing of an additional return is the comparison of the 1942 income and the estimated income for 1943. If the estimated income for this year is less than in 1942 a report will be necessary.

Mr. Sherrer said that the office on the second floor of the Citizen's building will be open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily except Sunday to assist residents of the Marion area in completing returns.

Tax payments can be made with the internal revenue office here or checks or money orders may be mailed to the Internal Revenue Collector at Columbus, Mr. Sherrer said.

Four persons, in addition to Mr. Sherrer, are on hand at the office to assist with income tax matters. They are Allen Johnson, Judson Knight, Virginia Uhl and Margaret Middleburg.

"POP" CONCERT SET FOR 4 P. M. SUNDAY

Music Program To Be Given at Chautauqua Pavilion.

Flags of many of the country's allies will provide a colorful setting at the Chautauqua pavilion for the "pop" concert to be presented by the Marion [illegible] Chorus Sunday afternoon at [illegible] o'clock, under the direction of L. G. Jones, chorus director and supervisor of music in the Marion public schools.

No admission will be charged for the program, which opens with selections by the Harding High school band directed by Homer E. Huffman. Mrs. E. N. Hale will be the soloist for two of the chorus numbers, "The Grand Old Flag" and "My Hero."

Pfc. William Chosnyk, violinist, who is stationed at Fort Hayes, Columbus, will be guest musician. Since coming to Columbus he has appeared on radio programs and before music groups in that city and the vicinity. His accompaniments will be played by Miss Evelyn Clary of New York, who was his accompanist when he appeared in weekly broadcasts over a New York station.

The Chautauqua pavilion is being placed in readiness today for the concert and arrangements are being made to seat approximately 2,000 persons.

PRICE COMMENDS AMERICAN PRESS

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—Byron Price, director of censorship, expressed to The Associated Press managing editors meeting today "the appreciation and commendation of the government for this great service" which they have rendered in voluntary cooperation under the wartime censorship code.

"As for the future," he said, "I can not help feeling that your patriotic solicitude will continue to safeguard voluntary censorship.

"By carrying to a conclusion what you have so well begun, you will hasten the day when all censorship will come to its unlamented end."

"Of the many conflicts of interest which arise inevitably in wartime," Price said, "one of the most troublesome is in the field of publication. On the one hand is the military, interested in the strategic value of secrecy and inclined to subordinate all else to the prosecution of armed combat. On the other hand are those agencies, including the press, which are dedicated to the preservation of certain civil rights.

BULK OF SHIPS SAIL TO MALTA, GIBRALTAR TO ESCAPE GERMANS

By The Associated Press

Adolf Hitler's hopes of seizing the Italian fleet were frustrated today as the bulk of Italy's capital warships surrendered to the allies at Malta and others were reported to have arrived at Gibraltar after fleeing Nazi dive-bomber attacks.

In addition, dispatches from Palma De Mallorca in Spain's Balearic islands said 12 units of the Italian fleet had arrived there.

Altogether, at least 35 Italian naval craft were said to have escaped from the Nazis, including four battleships and nine cruisers.

Two of the battleships delivered to the allies at Malta, the dispatches said, were the Andrea Doria and the Guilio Cesare, both ancient 23,622-ton warships which were reconstructed and modernized in 1937. A carrier reported to have reached Malta today, along with nine cruisers, six destroyers and smaller units, was not identified.

Two Italian cruisers, two destroyers and two smaller units were reported to have reached the British base at Gibraltar yesterday, while a dispatch today from the neutral Spanish port of Palma De Mallorca in the Balearics told of the arrival there of 12 units of the Italian fleet.

Despite several losses the latest accounts indicated that in addition to her battleships and cruisers Italy had three aircraft carriers, 25 destroyers, 30 to 60 submarines and a large number of smaller craft.

The Germans claimed yesterday—and there has been no substantiation—that they sank a battleship and damaged cruisers which had fled from La Spezia.

Although the Italian navy showed reluctance to fight while it was at war, its escape from the clutches of the Germans was considered as a major achievement for the allies.

The immediate benefit of its capital ships to the allied sea war is problematical but there were long range possibilities.

Helpful on Patrol

It will take time to re-equip them with new guns of allied caliber and there is also the question of manning them. It was considered that they would be useful for patrol work and hunting sea raiders but of little use in any coordinated battle action.

The mass escape of Italy's sea strength from the clutches of the Germans was hailed in London as a major coup for the allies. All but two Italian cruisers were now said to have been accounted for.

Berlin claimed yesterday, without substantiation, that German bombers, blasted an Italian naval formation which was "attacking German shipping between Sardinia and Corsica" and sank a battleship and a cruiser, and severely damaged another battleship, a cruiser and a destroyer. Berlin said the Italian warships had fled the La Spezia naval base in northwest Italy to join the allies.

Swiss frontier dispatches reported without confirmation that British troops had landed at Ostia, seaport for Rome, and were fighting German divisions near the Nazi-held capital.

A large-scale German retreat from southern Italy was indicated in reports received at allied headquarters which declared that U. S. divebombers swooped down on big German convoys moving northward toward Naples and Salerno. Fully 100 Nazi trucks were destroyed and 200 more were damaged on the north-bound highway.

Other Developments

Other events at-a-glance:

1. Italian sources in Madrid reported that allied troops had made new landings on the island of Sardinia. Italian forces on nearby Corsica, stepping-stone to the French Mediterranean coast, were described as in complete control of the island's airfields.

2. The German radio, quoting Berlin foreign office spokesman, said Italy's King Vittorio Emanuele III, Crown Prince Umberto and Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio had fled to Sicily.

Their reported flight to the allied camp followed in the wake of yesterday's seizure of Rome by the Germans and a vitriolic denunciation by Hitler against both the king and Badoglio. Hitler swore that their "treachery" in surrendering Italy to the allies would be avenged by hard measures.

Stockholm dispatches said that Badoglio was in Sicily and that Parliament, the Italian capital, would be the new seat of the Italian government.

The Nazis had previously announced it would set up a puppet Fascist regime "in the name of Mussolini."

3. Hitler's headquarters asserted that the Italian naval base at Pola on the Yugoslav side of the Adriatic sea and the island of Rhodes in the Dodecanese group had surrendered to the Germans.

"Our troops have marched into Milan, Turin and Padua," the Nazi communique said.

The Germans conceded that grim fighting was in progress in the Salerno area, but claimed that a German counterattack had regained some territory.

An NBC broadcast said the British 8th army, fighting its way up the peninsula from Calabria, had advanced 25 miles northward at such a rapid clip that it was beginning to overtake the retreating Germans.

4. Berlin admitted that pitched battles were raging between German and Italian troops in northern Italy.

An Algiers broadcast said Italian soldiers were fighting the Germans in the Turin district, but a Rome broadcast declared that Gen. Vittorio Ruggiero, commander at Milan, had surrendered Milan to Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Clashes between German and Italian forces in the Balkans were reported continuing.

RAF Pilot Sees Nazi Plane Sink Italian Battleship

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 11—Soon after escaping from German-dominated ports in northern Italy, Italian warship fought a half-hour battle with German bombers which attacked them off the island of Corsica and sank one battleship.

An eyewitness account of the fight was brought here by an RAF pilot who saw it, Wing Commander H. Law-Wright of South Ashdown, Cheshire.

He said the battleship sank after being split open by bombs from the planes of Italy's ex-while allies.

Six of Italy's seven battleships had been accounted for today, and four of them were safe in allied hands at Malta.

Another, the modern 35,000-ton Roma, was reported to have reached neutral sanctuary at the Spanish island of Palma De Mallorca in the Balearics.

An allied communique announced only that "the battleships, heavy cruisers and other units of the Italian fleet had arrived at Malta, the Associated Press dispatches declared that four battleships, 11 cruisers, eight destroyers and numerous smaller units had safely run the German gauntlet.

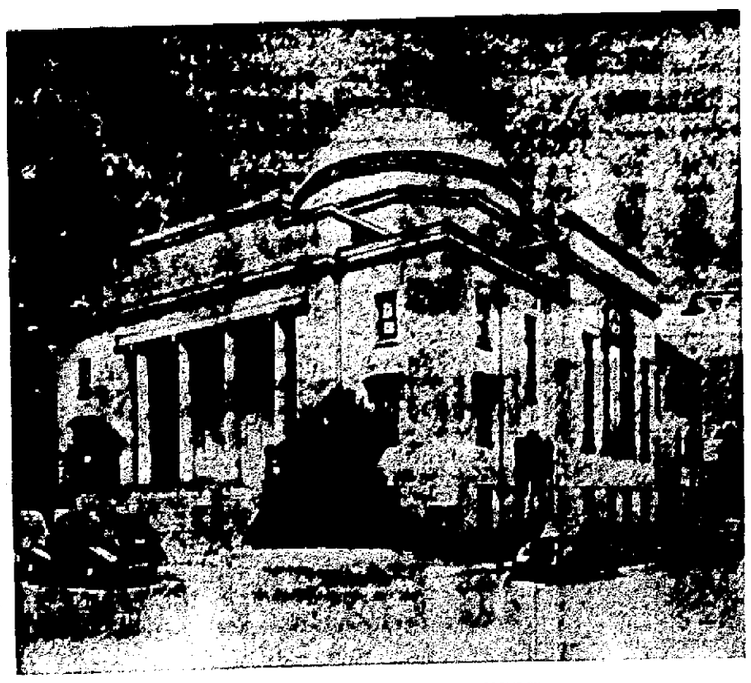
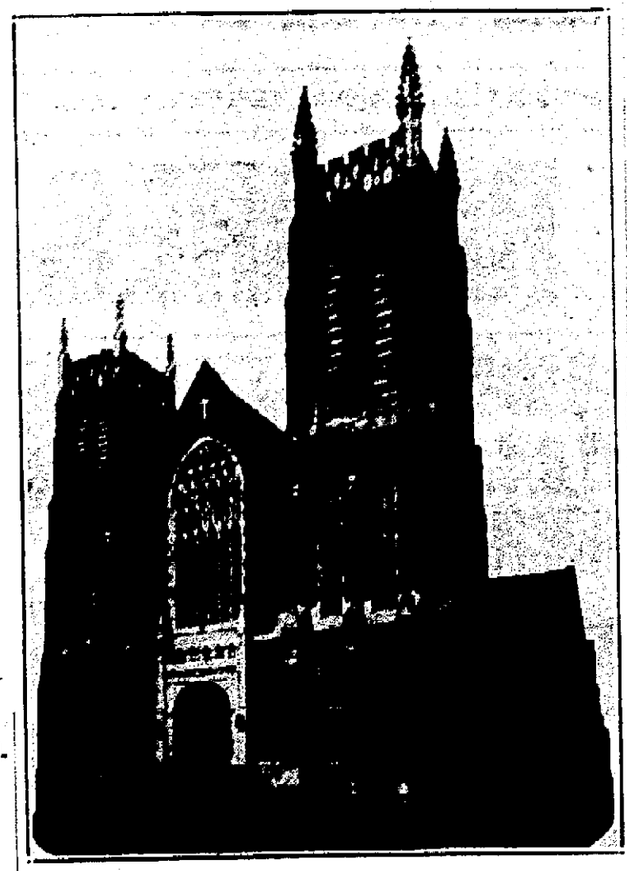
Two Churches To Mark 25th Anniversaries



CALVARY EVANGELICAL CHURCH



EMANUEL LUTHERAN CHURCH

Programs To Mark Quarter-Century Events in Calvary Evangelical and Emanuel Lutheran Churches.

Two Marion churches will celebrate twenty-fifth anniversaries of dedication of their present church edifices tomorrow.

The churches are Emanuel Lutheran and Calvary Evangelical. Special services in each church will be at 10:30 a. m. and at 8 p. m. in the Calvary church.

Calvary Evangelical

Special services in Calvary Evangelical church marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of dedication of the building will be held at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow and at 8 p. m. with Rev. R. W. Faulkner, newly appointed pastor, preaching. His subjects will be "When God Speaks" and "Vision."

Dedicated Sunday, Sept. 8, 1918, the "new church" was started in April, 1917 as the former structure was proving too small for the rapdily growing congregation. As early as 1908 it was not uncommon to have more than 600 at Sunday school service while more were turned away for lack of room during church services and special occasions. In 1904 church trustees had purchased a lot just east of the building then serving the congregation on Church and High street.

Started in 1884

The history of the congregation dates to 1884 when a small number of persons adhering to the creed of the Evangelical church, who had been holding weekly prayer meetings in a private home, decided to establish a local Evangelical church.

A lot was purchased at Church and High streets and a frame building erected. It was dedicated free of debt Feb. 22, 1885 and known as Calvary Evangelical Mission church. At the close of the first conference year a membership of 30 was reported.

Frequent changes were made to accomodate growing numbers until the first church was entirely rebuilt and rededicated Aug. 25, 1901. In 1908 a basement was excavated and made into a Sunday School department, but continued growth made it apparent another building would be needed. In a few years, finance, building and furnishing committees were appointed to plan the new church. Rev. W. L. Martin was pastor.

Expansion Move

Not only did the congregation of Calvary expand, but some of the members determined to organize a Sunday school in the northwestern part of the city. At first meetings were held in the basement of the Greenwood school, later a tabernacle was erected at Greenwood and Mark streets, then plans were made to build a church there. Greenwood Evangelical church was dedicated in June, 1915.

In June, 1918 the first service was held in the Calvary church mission, a bungalow building erected by the Mission Church Property committee of Calvary church at Bellefontaine and Christian streets.

Ministers who have served Calvary church since the 1918 dedication include, besides Rev. Martin, Rev. J. W. Heininger, Rev. D. L. Caldwell, Rev. C. L. Allen, Rev. E. Radebaugh, Rev. W. M. Davis, Rev. J W. Heininger, Rev. P. E .Smoke and Rev. Faulkner.

He that thinks he can never speak enough, may easily speak too much.—Quarles.

Emanuel Lutheran

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the consecration of the edifice of Emanuel Lutheran church will be celebrated tomorrow with special services in the church. Pastor of the congregation when the consecration took place on Sunday, Sept. 8, 1918, Dr. J. W. Schillinger of Columbus, president of the Ohio district of the American Lutheran church, will give the anniversary sermon and assist the pastor, Rev. M. E. Hollensen, in celebrating the holy communion.

The parsonage, as well as the church edifice, was erected during his ministry, the house at a cost of $10,000 and the church over $70,000. While the church building has been free of debt a number of years, the last trace of indebtedness on the parsonage was removed Sunday, June 28, 1942. The silver jubilee offering tomorrow will be devoted to the radio fund for broadcasting Sunday morning services over station WMRN.

The celebration 25 years ago included festival services throughout the week of Sept. 8 and climaxed four years of planning the event.

Formed in 1874

The history of the church goes back to 1874 when the congregation was founded. Charter members were five and at first they were served by pastors of the Prospect charge, afterward united with the Marion county charge. During the first year services were held in the basement of the Methodist church at State and Center streets then for a number of years the congregation worshiped in the United Brethren church on Prospect street.

In 1884 the pastorate of Rev. M. C. Hecht began, the mission became an established congregation and building of a church at State and Columbia streets was undertaken. Dedication services were held May 16, 1886. At the opening of the pastorate of Rev. A. L. Nicklas in 1891 the congregation had 120 communicant members. Rev. E. F. W. Stellhorn succeeded to the patsorate in 1896, communicants numbered 196 and the church was remodeled.

Became Pastor in 1909.

Dr. Schillinger became pastor in 1909. In 1911 at the time of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the congregation there were 340 members and Sunday school enrollment was 225. As the congregation rapidly neared the 500 mark need of a new church was felt and on Feb. 26, 1916 finance and building committees were appointed and Sept. 6, excavation was commenced. May 13, 1917 the corner stone of the new church was laid. Only living members of the two committees today are H. L. Albrecht and Andrew Baldauf. The fiftieth aniinversary of the founding of the church was celebrated in 1924. Rev. Hollensen became pastor Nov. 1, 1937 when Dr. Schillinger resigned to accept presidency of the Ohio district. The church now has a membership of 1,100.

The Church and the Home

A Sermonette

By REV. ELDRED W. JOHNSTON

Pastor of Central Christian Church

Text: "Show to the generations to come the praises of the Lord, and His strength, and His wonderful works that He hath done."—Psalm 78:4.

THE Church, more than any other institution, is responsible for the foundations of the home. This responsibility is a precedent long established in the history of the Church. God at creation willed that man should have a mate and reproduce so that the human family could be established. God ordained that male and female of every species should be preserved on the ark of Noah so that the human family might be perpetuated after the flood. Of the great Ten Commandments which God gave to Moses, two of them definitely provide for the establishment of strong foundations for the home: "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee," and, "Thou shalt not commit adultery;" the latter being a precept to insure the fidelity of man and wife.

The parent's responsibility for the careful nurture of children was clearly set forth by the Israelite religion. In Deuteronomy we find this command: "These words which I command thee this day, shall be in thine heart: And thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." The Psalmist expresses the same thought impressively: "Show to the generations to come the praises of the Lord, and His strength, and His wonderful works that He hath done. For he established a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a law in Israel, which He commanded our fathers, that they should make them known of their children: that the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born; who should arise and declare them to their children: that they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep His commandments." Many more passages of similar thought can easily be found in the Old Testament.

THE New Testament is no less explicit on the subject. One of the first pictures in the New Tstament is that of Mary and Joseph taking the boy, Jesus, to the Temple to celebrate the holy festival of Passover. Later, as a man, Jesus was so concerned with the evil of adultery that he condemned those husbands or wives who even looked on another with lust. He respectfully quoted the words of the Old Testament: "God in the beginning made them male and female. For this cause a man shall leave his father and mother and cleave unto his wife and the twain shall become one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder.

Was He concerned with the spiritual nurture of children? Every parent should meditate solemnly upon His words: "Despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of My father. It is not the will of your Father that one of these little ones should perish. Whoso shall offend one of these little ones, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned in the depths of the sea."

THE modern church not only has a rich inheritance from the past in the matter of family care, but also has a tremendous responsibility in the midst of the current crisis. It's the Church that must hand on to the family the high ideals of the past; not only hand them on, but make them live! It's the Church that must pronounce judgment on those parents who violate or ignore these ideals; not only pass judgment, but strive to redeem. It's the Church that must counsel with its young people before marriage, helping them to understand that there is a function of marriage far beyond that of the biological or the economic function; helping them to feel the sacredness of the vows they are about to take. It's the Church that must provide for the family a reinforcing fellowship—a community of friends dedicated to the same high ideals of religion, purity, and love. It's the Church that must provide opportunity for the growth and development of the Christian soul and character. It's the Church that must provide a spiritual ministry of comfort, courage, and inspiration in time of family strain, family trial and family tragedy.

And now is the time when the Church dare not fail; for war menaces and separates families; it brings in its train the deadliest of evils and vices; it exposes our children to unwholesome excitements, anxieties and blind hatreds. And yet, the true Church is sufficient for the crisis. For the Church can make of each home an island of security and love, in the midst of a world of confusion and hatred.

Six-Day Missionary Conference To Be Opened Tomorrow

REV. HAROLD B. STREET

Rev. Harold B. Street, formerly a missionary in Ethiopia, will be principal speaker in a six-day Bible and missionary conference to be held in Emmanuel Baptist church beginning tomorrow. Rev. Finkenbiner is host pastor.

Under the auspices of the Sudan Interior mission, known as the largest interdenominational work in Africa, which is celebrating 50 years of missionary activity, the conference will be one of a number of special meetings in different parts of the country.

Rev. and Mrs. Street served a number of years as missionaries in Ethiopia and more recently have carried on as deputation secretaries for their mission. In Ethiopia they not only pioneered the opening of a new mission station but reduced the language to writing. They were taken prisoner three times, robbed and bombed repeatedly at the time of the Italian invasion. Rev. Street declares, "The field of Ethiopia is again opening up to the Gospel and the entire work of the mission has steadily gone forward during the war days."

Services will be tomorrow at 10 and 11 a. m. and 7 and 8 p. m. and each night through Friday at 8. Church doors will be open at 7:30 with a song service under the direction of Pat Murphy at 8. Most of the message will be illustrated by motion pictures. The program includes:

Tomorrow morning, Sunday school object lesson, "Snakes and Worse Than Snakes," Mrs. Street and "Are the Heathen Lost?" Rev. Street; tomorrow night, "A Choice It Must Be," Mrs. Street and "The Blackness of Darkness," motion picture lectures, Rev. Street; Monday, "Take That Thing Off," Rev. Street and "Woman's Work Is Never Done," picture, Mrs. Street; Tuesday, "If We Tarry, Mischief Will Come," Mrs. Street and "Tottering Islam," picture, Rev. Street; Wednesday, "Poured Out," Rev. Street and "Despised but Taken In," picture, Mrs. Street; Thursday, "Burdens Made Over Into Blessings," Mrs. Street and "Triumph in Christ," picture, Rev. Street; Friday, "As the Father Hath Sent Me," Mrs. Street and "The Victory of the Peace," Rev. Street.

BACK THE ATTACK with WAR BONDS

THE sooner this war is over, the sooner the men in uniform whom you know . . . will be back home . . . and the more chance there is of their surviving at all! The War Bonds you buy, tangibly help win the war: but you don't give the money they cost to the government: it's just a loan: you get it all back . . . with interest . . . and the privilege of living a life of freedom! Just a loan—the 3rd War Loan is being asked of you now—and now's the time to buy an extra $100 in War Bonds!

Many-Sided Mountbatten Gets New Assignment

WHEN Allied forces swing into the offensive against the Japs in Burma, they will be led by a many-sided man who is trained in every phase of the rough hard fighting that will lie ahead. He is Lord Louis Francis Albert Victor Nicholas Mountbatten, German-descended cousin of George VI. These pictures show four facial studies that keynote his career.

CLUBMAN—Son of an Austrian-born prince, Mountbatten in peacetime was friendly with the Prince of Wales, played good golf and polo, frequented night clubs.

COMMANDER — Navy man since World War I, he rose to command destroyers and an aircraft carrier in World War II. He survived torpedoes, air attacks, ship sinkings.

COMMANDO—Lord Louis became chief of combined operations soon after Commandos were formed. He planned sensational, terror-raising raids on Hitler's Europe.

COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF—Now supreme Allied commander in Southeast Asia, Mountbatten is 43, tall, broad-shouldered, dark-haired, bright-eyed, handsome—and determined.

Athletic Carnival Events On Sunday Playground Program

The postponed portion of last Monday's playground athletic carnival will be staged at Lincoln park tomorrow afternoon, Vic Dorris, city recreation supervisor, announced today.

The carnival activities which were called off because of rain and which will be held at the North Side park tomorrow are softball, relays, races and group games. In the softball competition, teams representing Oakland-Marion Steam Shovel recreation unit and Garfield park will meet in the first game with Lincoln and McKinley park teams clashing in the second contest. The winners of these two elimination games, which will extend over the five-inning route, will then meet for the recreation playground softball championship.

Supervisor Dorris said the softball games probably will start at 2 p. m. and will be held in the right field section of the Lincoln park ball field. They can not be played in the diamond proper, he said, since the Lords Jewelry-Tiffin Packer softball game is scheduled for Lincoln at 2 p. m. tomorrow. However, if there is any congestion as a result of the two games being played simultaneously, the playground contests will be held following completion of the Lords doubleheader, Dorris added.

The relays, group games and races probably will be held between games of the softball doubleheader. This would be approximately at 3:30 p. m.

Soccer baseball for girls, cancelled on Labor day because of inclement weather conditions, probably will not be held tomorrow.

This run-off of the Labor day carnival officially will close the 1943 Marion recreation program. During the past week, however, the four playgrounds under the supervision of the recreation commission, have not been in operation.

A program and social hour was preceded by a business session when the W. S. C. S. of Epworth Methodist church met Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. A. G. Birch, vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Walter E. Miley. The meeting opened with group singing was followed by a report of the executive board meeting in which the Third War Bond drive was emphasized. Reports by Mrs. Ernest Garver, secretary, and Mrs. E. J. Schoenlaub, treasurer, were followed by reports of departmental secretaries.

Mrs. S. M. Ingmire conducted the devotions on the topic, "Walking with the Master." Mrs. F. L. Hoover played two piano numbers, "To Spring," Grieg and "To a Wild Rose," MacDowell. Members of Circle No. 4 were in charge of the program hour, which included a talk on "The Lord's Prayer," by Miss Cleo Finley. She was assisted by Marilyn Fields and Charlene Long of the Rainbow group, who presented illustrations for Miss Finley's talk. Mrs. James Lingo gave a paper, "God's Good Neighbor," which told of the work of Dr. Tucker, world traveler and missionary.

POST-WAR PLANNING TO BE CARRIED ON

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11—The program of Ohio's post-war planning commission will go forward regardless of the outcome of a forthcoming court test of the commission's legality, Gov. Bricker declared today.

The program will, if necessary, be turned over to the state development and publicity commission, Bricker said.

Legal authorities in the Capitol have questioned the commission's validity since the legislature in creating it appointed some of its own members to the commission.

Bricker announced the possibility of transferring the program to the development and publicity commission following the refusal of four legislators to serve on a newly-named commission to construct new schools for the deaf and the blind.

Hull Pledges Post-War Aid of U. S. To Jews

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11—The United States government will "take every feasible step to ameliorate the wretched plight of the Jews in Europe," Secretary of State Cordell Hull promised delegates to the 46th annual convention of the Zionist organization of America opening today.

"I am sure," he said in a message to Judge Louis E. Levinthal, Zionist president, "that no gathering of persons of the Jewish faith can or will fail to express their reaction to the stupendous crime which the axis powers have perpetrated against the Jewish people."

Hull reaffirmed a statement made last October that "under the terms of the Atlantic charter the United Nations will be prepared not only to redeem their hopes of a future world based upon freedom, equality and justice, but to create a world in which such a tragedy will not again occur. * * * I can assure the delegates that this government will take every feasible step to ameliorate the wretched plight of the Jews in Europe."

Fred Egan To Bring Horses For Marion Race Movie Program

The name of another big time harness racing driver today was added to the growing list of those planning to participate in Marion's special racing meet beginning next Thursday.

The latest addition is Fred Egan, popular southern horseman who ranks right up alongside of Vic Fleming, Doc Parshall, Jack Brown and others. Egan is the second big time driver to request for stall space from Race Secretary Frank M. Foster who is staging the three-day meeting in compliance with a request of the 20th-Century Fox studios. The meeting third this year for Marion will be the occasion for filming climactic scenes in the $2,000,000 technicolor production of "The Phantom Filly," a novel by George Agnew Chamberlain.

Mr. Foster said this morning that inquiries about the meeting have been pouring in from all over the nation this week. While the meeting will be only three days in length it is expected to compare favorably in quality with the 15-card meeting held in June and July. A big share of the drivers, trainers and owners here then are expected to return. In addition a great many horses which were not in racing condition at that early date will also be on hand.

The meeting will immediately precede the four-day Grand Circuit meeting at Delaware. Its only competition will be the fair racing program at Carthage, near Cincinnati.

Entries postmarked before midnight tonight will be accepted in the 11-event early-closing program. The complete entry list will not be available until about the middle of next week.

Schedule of Events

Outstanding events on the three-day card include two and three-year-old trots, 12 and 15 trot, 12 pace, free-for-all pace, 15, 19 and 24 paces and 18 and 22 trots. The two and three-year-old trots will carry $1,000 purses, while the 12 and 15 trots and the 12 pace will be worth $500 each. Purses of $400 have been posted for the remaining events.

First of the oat-burning champions are due to arrive in Marion over the week-end. Others are expected Monday and Tuesday and by the time of the opening race on Thursday the biggest share of the 150 campaigners expected to take part in the meeting will be on hand.

As yet arrangements for hiring of officials has not been completed, Mr. Foster reported. Attempts are being made to obtain genial Steve Phillips of Erie, Pa., as starting judge. Possibly Wayne Groves of Pinehurst, N. C., or Joe McGraw of Washington, Pa., will round out the official staff.

SOUVENIR—T/Sgt. W. G. Holland of Oakland, Calif., one of the U. S. air raiders who snuttled between England and Africa, brought back this Arabian knife as a keepsake.

First Aid Class To Open at Galion

GALION, Sept. 11—Advanced first aid classes, sponsored by the Galion chapter of the American Red Cross, will begin here at 7 p. m. next Tuesday, Sept. 14 at the public library.

According to announcement made by Mrs. W. P. Kimble, chairman of the local chapter, the class will be taught by Charles Hinckley Jr., and it will be a preliminary class leading up to an instructors' class which will follow. The Eastern area headquarters will send a first aid instructor to Galion to conduct the instructors' class to provide the city with a greater number of trained personnel in this work.

Candidates for the advanced class must hold current standard certificates and be interested in teaching first aid courses to others. Registration is to be made at the office of the Galion chapter in the Wyandot building.

Star-Spangled BANNER

ON September 13th, 1814 . . . in the glare and strife of battle when all that was left was hope . . . Francis Scott Key set down the pride, the hope and the glory of the Star Spangled Banner in immortal words Americans will forever sing! Today it is the anthem of a nation that time and again has survived all struggles to maintain the rights of free men . . . and those words reach out across the years with new and greater meaning. All Americans know today, in the darkness of war that the dawn of peace will find the Stars and Stripes even more gallantly waving o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave. For . . . "conquer we must, when our cause it is just" and there is no righter cause than freedom . . . a very tangible belief that men and women from every state in our country are fighting and sacrificing their very lives to maintain. Here on the home front too, Americans are sacrificing to buy the Bonds that mean supplies and ammunition to back the attack . . . and hasten the day when our land will once more be blessed with victory and peace.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1943

—And This Means You

PRIVATE enterprise, say assorted spokesmen representing themselves as champions of wage earners, must provide jobs in the future—or else.

There's argument about that, but just what is private enterprise? Many of the spokesmen seem to have the idea that it is the other fellow, and that he can make or break private enterprise by his actions.

Private enterprise is everybody in the United States. It is workers who have achieved the world's best standard of living under private enterprise. It is managers who have channeled the skills and energies of human beings into the processes of production. It is consumers who have reaped the benefits of competitive business and mass production. It is capital. It is the government which has drawn on the people's wealth to give them what they wanted and sometimes what they didn't want. It is the professional group, artists, teachers. Private enterprise is the economic system of this country.

Its continued development entails national cooperation among all minorities. Organized labor, which can not exist without private enterprise, must work with management. Management must work with labor. Both must work with government, and government must work with them. Private enterprise is not the other fellow, and whoever makes the mistake of thinking and talking as if it can be preserved by the other fellow's efforts is either foolish, or part of the half-baked movement to undermine private enterprise in the United States and replace it with the theories of the system's critics.

War Is Sacrifice

THE Third War Loan goal cannot be reached without financial sacrifice. Everything about war is sacrifice. Fighting men sacrifice part of their careers and perhaps their lives. Families sacrifice their loved ones. The nation sacrifices its material and human resources. Investors in war securities sacrifice things they might like to buy now for the sake of giving the government their money for war, to be paid back later with interest. Their sacrifice is the only one that can be redeemed.

The only thing that can keep the Third War Loan drive from success is the people's failure to act on the necessity of investing their money in the winning of the war. In most cases, the decision is going to entail a choice between buying securities and buying something else; relatively few citizens have idle funds already on hand for investment. The majority will have to give up something, or cut down, or divert a part of their income. There is no better use for money available for discretionary use, however, than government securities when the value of all money is being determined by the outcome of the war.

The citizen's personal decision must be made on that basis. As between a government bond and something else, which is preferable? There is only one answer—the government bond. Everything else can wait.

No Dosage for Complacency

IT IS too soon to say what may be the effect of a reported government order to give the American public more information about the seamy side of the war. Newspapers, of course, will continue to handle war news as they have handled it in the past. They will give their readers all the good stories and the good pictures obtainable. They will lend themselves to no scheme for stressing horror and misery unduly, if that is what the order means.

Newspapers, being somewhat closer to the general current of popular feeling and talk than the general run of officialdom, distrust government dosage for "the people's complacency." They do not believe that people whose sons, husbands, brothers and relatives are being killed and wounded are complacent. They do not believe that people who are doing their level best to do their work and make ends meet with something to spare for War Bonds under wartime conditions are complacent. They think there is something fishy whenever government spokesmen take the attitude that there should be something done to shock people who already are doing their best. It looks too much like thumping a tired horse over the rump with a club to make him run faster.

Anything that can be done to speed and amplify information about the war is fine; newspapers have been in favor of it all the time. But anything done with the purpose of jarring complacency will have to be judged on its merits, consistent with the prevailing conviction that Washington spends too much time worrying about public complacency and not enough worrying about giving the country as good a government as it deserves for the way it has risen to the emergency.

When this war is over the United States and the British empire will control every square foot of the high seas and the air above those seas, and that is a frightful responsibility, because upon that power will rest the security of the world.—Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

What has to end, in one word, is competition for advantage over one's fellow man—not competition for the honor and privilege of serving mankind, but competition to dominate.—H. G. Wells, author.

Today and Tomorrow

Present Pattern of Things Seen Demanding Abdication of Italy's King.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

IF VICTOR EMMANUELE has not yet abdicated, it will be necessary that he do abdicate in the place and in will follow our bombing of Italy. For Italy must in the nature of things do more than to surrender unconditionally.

Italy cannot merely retire from a war which is not to be fought on and from Italian soil. Italy must participate fully with the United Nation and against Germany. She must do this in order to hasten the end of fighting in Italy and to avoid the ravages of war. She must do it to redeem her self-respect and to regain her place among the nations.

But King Victor Emmanuele cannot decide over another decade of Italy's history. He was the ally of the German Kaiser before the World War, and he went over to the other side. He was then the ally of Britain and France. Later he abandoned that alliance and rejoined the Germans.

Can Only Abdicate

For the catastrophe which this has brought on his country, it was right and necessary that he should be the king to renounce the Axis and to surrender unconditionally. After that he can only abdicate. Italy cannot come effectively into our camp in the name of a king who has changed sides so often.

What the Italian nation decides eventually to do about the House of Savoy is none of our business. We are concerned not with the House of Savoy but with this particular king. He was ultimately responsible for the acceptance of Fascism, for the Ethiopian war, for the intervention in Spain, for stabbing France and Britain in the back, and for the criminal assault on Albania, Greece and Yugoslavia.

high statesmanship to treat with him, treating with him for the surrender. But he will have to abdicate before the Italian nation can come back into the society of the nations.

It cannot be made too clear at this time, our Russian friends notwithstanding, that the battle for Italy is the battle for the heart of Europe. Italy is no mere outpost, and the Mediterranean is not the sea frontier of the continent but the inland sea of the European world and the main highway of communication between the East and the West.

We know now how uncertain was the historical and strategical insight of Winston Churchill when in the last war he designed, though unhappily he was not permitted to carry through successfully, the campaign to open the Dardanelles and to reach Russia by sea. Had he prevailed and succeeded then, the world might well have been spared the frightful slaughter of the western front and all that followed from the bleeding white of the manhood of France and of Britain.

A Main Action

The battle for Italy is truly, as Gen. Eisenhower has said, a main action for the decision and not a skirmish on the perimeter. The number of troops involved is no true measure of its importance. For our object is not, as the vulgar saying goes, to kill Germans, but to crush the military power of Germany.

With Italy and the Mediterranean in our hands, with southern France, the Balkan peninsula and the Danubian plain outflanked and uncovered, and with the Black Sea routes to Russia opened, the war may not be over. But the German position will be hopeless, and the end will be clearly in sight.

Compulsory Military Training

Bill for Post-War Program Scheduled for Discussion.

By ROBERT M. FARRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

A STRONG indication of what kind of a world we expect to live in after the war should pop out of the discussion over compulsory military training in peacetime.

Rep. Andrew J. May (D-Ky.) has promised to introduce a bill when congress reconvenes this month requiring every able-bodied male between 17 and 21 to take a year's military training.

The fate of such a bill would attract great interest both here and abroad as unmistakable evidence of whether the United States intends to be prepared to fight again if necessary or is going to lapse into the pacifist role she adopted after the last war.

Following the Armistice in 1918 similar bills were prepared but strong pacifist sentiment sweeping the country foredoomed them to failure. With the war won and 3,000 miles of ocean protecting us from Europe's problems, people felt a big Army was unnecessary, that the peace was permanent.

Bigger Planes To Come

Super-bombers that can fly half a carload of bombs across the Atlantic and return without refueling are almost here, General Arnold has revealed, and that protection from aggression once afforded by our oceanmoat has been blasted forever by their development.

In the peace that will follow this war Americans will have to decide whether to strip down their military machine and build another should war come again, or maintain some part of that machine so as not to be caught napping in case of another sneak attack such as Pearl Harbor.

Since it has been proven that, given the time, America can build a mighty and invincible Army, future wars would very likely start with sudden, devastating and unexpected enemy attacks from the air on our key cities so as to paralyze our effort before it began.

About 1,000,000 youths a year would have to take military training as soon as they left high school, under May's plan. They would be in the Army a year, but could keep up their studies so as to go right into college without difficulty when their time was up. Under this program a reserve of 10,000,000 men could be built up in 10 or 15 years, to be quickly mobilized for service if necessary.

This reserve would do away with the alternative of a huge standing Army which has never appealed to unmilitaristic America. May believes that a regular Army of 500,000 (double the 1939 strength) would be enough.

Nearly every country in Europe and South America had some form of compulsory military service before the war. Switzerland's system offers an example of how a small army can be expanded rapidly. All men from 18 to 60 are subject to between 88 and 102 days of military training.

Annual Training

After the first year's service, the men are called up for 11 days annually for seven years then go on the reserves.

Normally, 46,000 men are being trained in the Swiss military establishment. When war broke out 650,000 men were mobilized.

Whether May's plan succeeds or fails will not in itself point to the post-war path the United States intends to follow. The discussion, however, will smoke out public sentiment and afford a key as to whether in the muddle of one war, people are ready to contemplate its successor.

Pisa's Tower Intact

PISA, bombed by American Flying Fortresses from North Africa, is important in the war as a junction and yard center on the railroad from Rome to Genoa. Its Leaning Tower, though not hurt, could have been toppled in seconds. Nature has only tipped it slightly out of perpendicular in more than seven and one-half centuries.

The tower leans about 16½ feet off center, says National Geographic Society, and it is this accident of architecture that makes Pisa, a city of 72,000 inhabitants, known the world over. Except to historians, Pisa's real claim to fame—the fact that as a maritime city-state it was one of the powers of the western world from around 900 to 1400—has been obscured by a leaning bell tower.

Out of the chaos of the dark ages, Pisa was the first Italian city to emerge. But for the Pisan navy, the Saracens might have conquered all of Italy. The Pisans halted them at Sicily, expelled them from Sardinia, Corsica and the mainland where they had made inroads. Engaging both militarily and commercially in the Crusades, the Pisans helped take Jerusalem while establishing banks, warehouses and consuls at every eastern port.

Genoa's rising power on the sea and Florence's growing might at its rear finally effected the downfall of Pisa. The city became a mere port of Florence after nearly a dozen ruinous wars on land and sea. During their heyday, the Pisans built the many architectural monuments still to be seen.

The famous tower was begun in 1174. When a height of only 40 feet was reached it was discovered that, because of insecure foundations, the tower was sinking on one side. Efforts to right the structure as the building continued were unsuccessful.

Sixty years later another architect added another story, but could not halt the continuing leaning. William of Innsburck added the top two stories, making the columns on one side longer than on the other and retaining the center of gravity within the building. The Tower was completed in 1350.

The Campanile is 179 feet high. In addition it has sunk seven feet below its original level. Modern sub-foundation improvements now help to stop farther inclination. Galileo, Pisan genius, used the Leaning Tower to prove for the first time that objects of different weights fall with the same speed. The swaying of the chandelier in the Cathedral, like Newton's apple, set Galileo to formulating the principle of the pendulum.

Bureaucracy's Report Cards

By Jack Stinnett for Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The world's largest employer of labor, the United States government, is going to undergo a brisk airing of its methods of handling personnel.

The house civil service committee headed by Rep. Robert Ramspeck of Georgia is hopping mad. It has been making an intensive investigation of the government employe setup.

The thing it has landed on hardest is the report card system. Once a year, every federal employe is subjected to what is known as the "report of efficiency rating."

Each of the more than 3,000,000 employes (exclusive of armed forces personnel) can be fired, promoted, or given a raise on the basis of these ratings.

It takes so much paper work, so many hours of work and so much money to maintain this system, however, that the civil service committee has decided to make an issue of it.

Three copies of the ratings must be filed. That means more than 9,000,000 sheets of paper. Just short of a million copies of the 32-page "Efficiency Rating Manual" must be issued, which means tons more of precious paper. Members of the committee are predicting that the next session of congress positively will pass a law to shear off reams of this red tape.

The road to success with Uncle Sam is paved with nine "efficiency ratings," ranging all the way from 1-E (for excellent) to 9-U (for unsatisfactory) and in between are such things as 4, 5, or 6-G (for good).

The way you get to be a 5-G, for example, is to have your teacher (immediate boss) mark your 32-question report card with at least a check (which means "adequate") on all important queries about the job you do and minus marks (meaning weak) fully compensated by plus marks (meaning outstanding) or a majority of underlined elements (important factors in your particular job) marked at least with a check, and minus marks on underlined elements overcompensated by plus marks on underlined elements.

It takes the civil service commission 32 pages in the "Efficiency Rating Manual" to explain this rating business and what to do if it doesn't work.

The commission has set up a system of checks and balances.

If a steno or division chief (the grading applies to all federal workers not appointed by the President and some of those who are so appointed, but also are under civil service) doesn't like his grade card, he can appeal.

If the rating official can't talk him (or her) out of it, he (or she) can go before the the reviewing official and if he (or she) isn't completely cowed by that time, there still is the efficiency rating committee.

Since all three of these persons or groups already have put their stamps of approval on the original report card, they are in the same spot as the baseball umpire who already has shouted "Out." If he changes his mind, it's an admission that he didn't know his business in the first place.

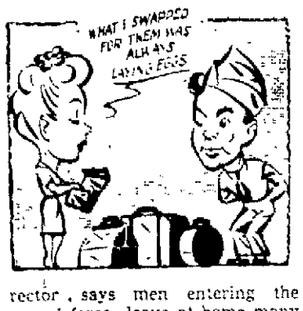
NEW ORLEANS—The Swappers' Club, originated here recently by the United Service Organization, gives servicemen, merchant marines and civilians an opportunity to trade their white elephants for more desirable goods. Fred Dildine, assistant director, says men entering the armed forces leave at home many belongings they want to dispose of. So...



"A brood of chickens which tied one soldier's wife to their old home was traded for luggage so she could join her husband here," Dildine said. "We've swapped airplanes for autos and microscopes for farm instruments, but that chicken-for-luggage was tops in effectiveness."

Government's Idea Is To Give War Workers Roof Over Heads Without Adding New Buildings.

By DAMON RUNYON

I HAVE before me the latest issue of the News Letter, a neat little publication from the office of war information containing a picture your home! drive to find 1,000,000 or more war workers who are not to take jobs away from their homes next year.

They will be going to 150 key production centers, according to the Victory News Letter, either does not partake of my views that the war will be over in Europe by Christmas, or which shares it and is keeping mum, while I much longer war with Japan. Anyway, the centers to which the workers are going are already short of housing. The idea is to encourage property owners and tenants to open their homes to newcomers and to list with the local war housing center all vacant or soon-to-be-vacated rooms. That is, houses, flats, apartments or rooms which can be utilized without any expenditure of critical materials.

A REGULAR campaign to this end is conducted by the war advertising council in cooperation with the national housing agency and the OWI. I am putting in all these words just to show you what a complete prose any government move is these days.

But I think this particular proposal is a right because war workers must have proper housing. You would not put your pet dog in some of the lean-tos they have had to erect in various cities of the country.

This plan does not mean you are to be asked to install another cot in the room with Uncle Herbert, or even to put a shakedown on the living room floor for an unexpected roomer.

The thought is to get property owners whose properties are not now suitable for use to make their own dough or borrow some from private financial institutions and convert the properties. If the owners are unable to raise the money, they will be requested to lease their houses and buildings to the government and let the government do the work.

THE WAR production plan forced a huge migration of labor months ago to places where enough housing did not exist, and since production continues to expand and the shortage of critical war materials makes it impossible to provide new housing for the increasing migrations the situation is more acute now than ever. That is why this new idea has been thought up.

It is pretty much of an invitational affair, though the army solved a somewhat similar problem early in the war by taking over hotels and business buildings in various cities which it has lately been tossing back on the owners in many cases not in what you would call apple pie order.

There probably aren't enough hotels and available buildings in the production centers to meet this new emergency, though the question of availability never bothered the army. The army just took them. While I am talking about the army, I might say I wish the promoters of the "share-your-home" drive would induce property owners in army centers to fix up their vacant stores and houses for soldiers who find themselves on leave in the cities and no place to rest their weary bones.

THIS is something the government should provide for out of public funds, of course, but which like a lot of other things pertaining to the welfare of the soldiers has been left to the generosity of private citizens. The citizens are doing nobly in many places.

But it seems to me a crime that soldiers should ever have to sleep in chairs, on the floors of hotel lobbies, in railroad stations and even on sidewalks, when there are empty stores and dwellings that could be commandeered by the government and fitted up as sleeping quarters for the strays at probably no greater expense than the regular publication of the nice document here at my elbow.

Wiring

By Truman Twill

She has a little electrical work stored up for him, she announces, in connection with moving around the living room furniture. If he will just step into the living room, she will show him the new arrangement—and be careful not to trip over the extension cord in the doorway.

Certainly the extension cord is going to stay there. It's the only way she can connect the lamp on the writing desk to the outlet behind the piano. Of course she knows it is hazardous. Of course she knows the children will get their feet caught in it, but the children will have to learn to avoid it.

No, she has not draped that other extension cord over the top of the window for storage. Who would think of storing an extension cord in a place like that? That is the cord that carries juice from the outlet behind the bookcase to the lamp on the table at the end of the davenport. It runs across the window, down under the hooked rug and up the table leg to the lamp.

What she wants him to do is splice another cord so she can run it diagonally across the whole room underneath the rug to come out at the southwest corner and connect up with the radio. Then she wants him to get the end fixed up so she can have one place for a screw-in cord and two places for plug-in cords, because the cord on the floor lamp has one kind of an end on it and the other two cords she wants to use over there have plug-in ends.

While it might seem simpler to him to change the ends on the cords, she doesn't care to discuss the matter but would be obliged if he would go ahead and do it her way. She will take all responsibility. She knows he likes to vary having the arrangement of the room changed periodically, but if it pleases her she doesn't see why he should have any objections.

Oh, yes, and while he is on the job, there is a short circuit in the house some place or other. She thinks it is on the floor lamp, because when she turned it on it went right out and right after that she smelled something burning. She tried it in another outlet afterward and it smoked a little at the base. As a matter of fact, after that none of the lights downstairs would go on but the lights upstairs are all right.

Maybe he should look at the fuses to see if they are all right. No, she does not have any spare fuses hidden away anywhere. She doesn't know anything about fuses. She figures he would be able to handle that end of it when he came home and doesn't understand why he makes such a fuss every time she tries to improve the arrangement of the living room. You think, to hear him talk, that she was trying to burn down the house or something.

Constiution Is Drawn Up For Marion County's Junior Fair

14 Articles Included In Regulations Establishing Young People's Group As Definite Organization.

The Marion County Junior Fair association was established as a definite organization when a constitution was drawn up recently by a committee of six members of this year's Junior Fair Board, headed by Gordon Eichhorn. The constitution, composed at the request of the Senior Fair board, contains 14 articles.

Prevously the Junior Fair board has been composed of any number of members which the local groups wanted to send. These delegates then assembled around the first of August to elect officers and organize the displays and activities for the Junior fair.

Board Membership

The new constitution states in articles three that the board of directors for the association shall consist of one member from each rural school district in Marion county. Four of the directors shall represent home economics, three shall be chosen from girls' 4-H clubs, three from boys' 4-H clubs and four members will represent Future Farmers.

"Departments may be added or dropped and the board members representing such departments elected to or dropped from the board by a two-thirds vote of those present at any regular meeting of the board and upon the approval of the senior fair board members in charge of the Junior fair, the article reads.

The association will be under the supervision and direction of the Marion County Agricultural Society and the senior board members in charge of the Junior fair, according to article two. The association is named in article one.

Election of Directors

Article four of the constitution requires that each rural school district elect a director by Oct. 15, and only Junior fair exhibitors will be eligible to vote. Directors are to be elected for a two-year term, except for the first year when a nominating committee consisting of the Junior fair officers shall specify one-half of the directors to be selected for a one-year term and the other half for a two-year term.

Article five sets first meeting of the board of directors for the first Saturday in November each year. At this first meeting a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer will be elected, all to serve a term of one year.

Qualification for officers and directors of the organization are listed in article six. All officers and directors must have been members of their respective young people's organization for at least one year before their election and should continue in such activity while serving on the board.

Articles 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 deal with the duties of the officers and article 12 deals with the quorum. Article 13 provides that regular meetings of the board will be the first Saturday of February, May, August and November. Special meetings may be held on call of the president or secretary, if such be made five days prior by mail to the date set for the meeting.

Article 14 provides for amendments or alternations of the constitution.

The constitution has been approved by the Junior and Senior Fair boards.

European Troupe Coming With Circus

Three members of the daredevil Wallenda troupe, featured by the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

The high wire Wallendas will present one of the feature acts in the big top of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, coming to Marion Friday, Sept. 17. These performers returned from England on the last of convoyed liners.

A few months before Dunkirk, the Wallendas played Liege, Belgium, and part of the daily routine of Carl Wallenda, head of the family, was to visit an old building, which once housed his grandfather's permanent circus. Faded letters, barely legible, still read: "Cirque Wallenda." Carl and the act were playing in Blackpool, England, when the Nazis overran Belgium, and lately Carl has received roundabout word that the old Wallenda circus building is gone. It was not, one would suppose, bombed. The Nazis simply condemned it, and erected a soldiers' club on the site.

Sen. Caraway Opposes Ban on Father Draft

By The Associated Press

"I think if the Army and Navy needs fathers, there's nothing to do but take them," said the only woman member of the U. S. senate. She has two sons in the armed forces and contended that her constituents in Arkansas feel about the father draft as she does.

"I've talked a good deal about it with the people down home and they all seem to feel that congress shouldn't interfere," Mrs. Caraway added. "I can't see how congress can permit sending 18 and 19 year olds into the services and not allow fathers to go."

Her sons are Lieutenant Colonels in the infantry, Paul Caraway being stationed here and Forrest at Camp Pickett, Va.

Britain Warned Not Underrate Effect of Hitler's Appeal

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Sept. 11—Britons were warned by the London Times today not to underrate the force of Adolf Hitler's appeal yesterday to the German soldiers and people.

In an editorial, the newspaper declared that the German leader's address, the first in six months, left no doubt that the Germans intend to fight strongly to maintain their hold on Italy and that the capture of Rome suggests they plan a defense line in that area.

"It was the most direct of Hitler's speeches," the Times' diplomatic correspondent wrote. "He lied about the origins of the war, but even then he did not indulge in spasms of self-pity . . . Almost his only promise was his assertion that Germany would be avenged for the air raids * * *. So far as words can spur the Germans to fresh efforts it cannot be ignored."

Hitler told the German nation that the Italian surrender was of slight importance and that the "ring of steel forged by the German home front will never break."

"We may have to cede some territory," Hitler conceded, then declared the German army would be able to guard the nation from all assaults except the British-American bombing attacks.

"But," he said, "technical and organizational means are growing which will not only break the enemy's air attacks forever, but will retaliate with other and more effective means."

Hitler swore that the "treachery" of Premier Pietro Badoglio's government in deserting its axis partner to make peace with the allies would be avenged by "hard measures," and he denounced Premier Badoglio and King Vittorio Emanuel equally for their action. Up until a few hours before the armistice was signed, both had given assurances of continued Italian participation in the war, he insisted.

Whereabouts of Badoglio and the king were a mystery today. Stockholm dispatches quoted the Svenska Dogbladet as reporting that Badoglio was in Sicily and that Palermo would be the seat of the Italian government, following Rome's capitaulation to the Germans.

Berlin broadcasts insisted that Vittorio had abdicated in favor of Crown Prince Umberto. The Berlin correspondent of the Zurich newspaper Die Tat quoted Berlin officials as saying that not a single member of the Badoglio government or of the royal house were still in Rome.

strained enthusiasm," Associated Press dispatches said.

Although Italian surrender was accorded much credit for the sudden surge in bond buying, officials said scattered reports indicated that many communities had topped their quotas before the latest allied success became known and hence before the drive even opened officially.

Confusion in Italy Worst Since Fall of France in 1940

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Not since the Anglo-French agony in the summer of 1940 has the world's general public been confronted with such confusion of reports as are surrounding the Italian situation — and no small part of this is an artificial fog which is being deliberately created by the desperate Germans.

The situation on the Italian peninsula is of course serious, but we shouldn't let the confusion raise any doubts in our minds, for we may be sure that there is none in the minds of our high command. We can "keep her steady as she goes" with full confidence that we are headed straight for port. There are two points to keep well in mind during these hectic days:

1. The Germans are making frantic attempts to shore up the collapsing house that Hitler built. Part of their effort represents a real and grim fight with arms to delay the Allied occupation of Italy and also to save the Balkans. Part of it is propaganda and false reports which are now being spread by Nazi agents from many points of Europe in an effort to bewilder the Italians and other axis peoples as well as the enemy.

2. The Allies are doing better than all right. There's no occasion for alarm over the Italian position, although we must be prepared for bitter fighting, as well as some heavy complications such as grow out of the presence of German troops in Rome and their announced assumption of "protection" of the Vatican.

Nazi Moves Expected

It seems obvious that General Eisenhower and his staff of brilliant officers fully anticipated German reprisals against the Italians and some smart moves such as the "occupation" of Rome. The Allied commander-in-chief's action in keeping the armistice secret for five days speaks for itself. He foresaw the complications which now have come to pass.

Despite Berlin's efforts yesterday to create the impression that the Italian navy was in German hands, we have the fine news today that a large part of the fleet has arrived at the big British base of Malta in the Mediterranean and given itself up to the Allies. Whether some ships have been lost remains to be seen.

Bitter fighting is proceeding in the Naples area between American and German forces but we are landing more troops and supplies. In the extreme south General Montgomery's famous Eighth Army is slogging steadily northward.

An important point is how far the Italians will make good Premier Badoglio's order to resist any attack by the Germans. It is reported from Allied headquarters in North Africa that conditions in Italy are chaotic, with Italian troops in most cases laying down their arms rather than fight the Hitlerites.

Likely To Settle Down

Still, there has been much fighting between Italian and Nazi forces in various places. It may be that as the country steadies down after the first shock, the people will respond to the appeal by President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill to "strike hard and strike home" at the Germans on Italian soil.

Perhaps the knottiest problem which the Allies have to solve is the presence of German troops in Rome. That's a shrewd move on the part of the Nazis, because their eviction may involve military operations which the Allies will hate to apply to the Eternal City. This is especially true because Vatican City is involved.

Naturally the thought uppermost in most minds is that the unscrupulous Hitler in his desperation intends to try to hold the Pope as a "hostage" if His Holiness is still in Rome. That undoubtedly is the suggestion he tries to convey to the Allied world in announcing that his forces have assumed "protection" of Vatican City.

However, while the fuehrer has wallowed in every imaginable sort of crime, it seems inconceivable that he would dare challenge the world by harming the Pope. What the Nazi chief may be able to do is to exploit this situation so as to hamper the Allied operations to some degree.

ALLIES REPORT FALL OF LAE IMMINENT

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 11—The imminent fall of the Japanese air base of Lae, New Guinea, into allied hands was indicated strongly today by a communique which said "the enemy's position now is desperate."

Whether the Japanese, who have held the Huon gulf town since Jan. 25, 1942, propose to make a fight of it should become apparent soon. So far, only minor skirmishes have been reported by two allied forces pinching in on Lae from the northwest and northeast.

From the northeast, Australians, who have battled the Germans in North Africa and are openly contemptuous of their present foe's ability to fight, have crossed the Busu river only two miles from the Malahang airdrome on Lae's outskirts.

"You watch," said one Australian sergeant. "When we get in close to the Jap, he'll turn tail and fold up."

These Australians, slowed up principally by swamp and jungle, now have 25-pounders shelling Lae.

Up the Markham valley to the northwest of Lae, a large force of Americans and Australians, which has been flown in by air transports over the 12,000-foot high Owen Stanley mountains, has reached Narakapor, 12 miles from the enemy base. However, there are forward elements less than 10 miles from Lae.

"Our forces from both sides are rapidly closing in on the main citadel of defenses," today's communique said.

OUSTER OF GERMANS FROM ITALY PLEDGED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The allies pledged today to oust Germans from Italian soil and by directing that promise to Marshal Pietro Badoglio and the Italian people immediately raised the question of what was to happen to the ancient house of Savoy.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in a jointly-drawn statement urged every Italian "to strike his blow" now and demonstrate that, rid of Mussolini and Fascism, he desires next to be rid of Hitler and Nazis.

They addressed the message to Badoglio, who succeeded Mussolini, and the people, utterly ignoring King Victor Emmanuel III, head of Italy's ruling dynasty.

Rome radio has denied persistent reports that the king has abdicated in favor of Crown Prince Umberto, represented as opposed to Mussolini's Fascism.

The ignoring of the king was pointed, to say the least. The statements of the President and the prime minister never have been hasty, nor anything but well thought-out.

Whether it could be concluded that the United Nations intend to deal only with Badoglio, on the day of Italy's liberation, was pure conjecture, however.

The message was more than a mere statement—it was beamed by short wave radio directly to the Italian mainland where the British American forces are at grips with the Germans.

"It is not difficult to justify either of these positions, when they are considered separately. The military has, in a certain sense, a directive which supercedes all other directives, namely, to win the war and preserve the life of the nation. The press, on its part, has a traditional obligation to keep national life on a plane which will make it worth preserving.

"Thus sound public policy, in wartime, can not escape certain major readjustments which will bring together, under a working arrangement, conflicting viewpoints."

The voluntary censorship code represents such an adjustment, Price said, and as such is a "virile, aggressive force for victory."

Court Martial Trial of Colonel Completed

By The Associated Press

SELFRIDGE FIELD, Mich., Sept. 11 — The prosecution completed its case today in the court martial trial of William T. Colman, deposed commandant of this Army air base accused of more than a score of violations of the articles of war.

A surprise witness yesterday was Harry H Bennett, Ford Motor Co. personnel director, who testified that he alone sought the transfer from Fort Custer, Mich., to Selfridge Field of Lieut. Benson Ford, grandson of Henry Ford, and that young Ford knew nothing about it.

Col. Colman is charged with fraudulently obtaining the transfer of young Ford and several other enlisted men, the shooting and wounding of a Negro soldier-chauffeur, accepting gifts from a private contractor, misappropriation of government funds and drunkenness.

Post-War Development Plan Passed On to Cities, States

billion dollar plan for enterprise rebuilding of an cities, incorporated in neighborhood develop- introduced by Senator F. Wagner, is being laid governors and mayors the United States for local application, it was by the urban land instilocal reactions to the for the redevelopment of areas the plan is being 46 governors and to the of some 400 cities. In the the cities to whom the s being referred, the and institute is asking the to have appropriate plan- ials study the applica- the program to their com- and to offer comments.

To Use Federal Loans

neighborhood development as incorporated in the Wag- ure seeks the reuse of ur- in areas where blight deterioration have occurred. the scheme, long-term fed- and are to be made avail- local authorities through national housing agency for purchase of blighted areas. The land would then be cleared and offered for sale or lease for redevelopment as attractive neighborhoods in accordance with sound planning principles.

In presenting the plan to state and municipal officials, the institute declared that not only would it offer the benefits of superior urban environment, but it would in general improve the tax position of most cities by restoring property values in deteriorated areas. Likewise, the large construction program envisioned would provide extensive post-war employment and economic activity.

Under the plan, good industrial areas as well as attractive "close in" residential neighborhoods would be built in American cities on the site of present blighted areas. Essentially a private enterprise measure the plan also provides for public development of necessary municipal features, such as parks, buildings, schools and the like.

Local Government To Head

The Wagner bill proposes a billion dollar fund for long-term loans. According to Charles T. Stewart, director of the urban land institute, such a rebuilding program would generate five dollars of private construction for every dollar of federal credit. Thus 10 billions in federal loans would result in better than 50 billion dollars of private expenditure for construction.

The institute declares that state and local government would be brought to the forefront in the entire procedure. Redevelopment would be carried out under municipal planning, zoning and building regulations and would enable cooperation between government agencies and private effort. Because of the preponderant local nature of the operation, the suggestions and advice of both the city and state officials is being requested by the institute which sponsored the plan.

The institute, a private organization devoted to the promotion of better city development and planning, has carried on extensive work in surveying the needs of American cities.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist.

Q. I have some lilac bushes that seem to be very healthy, but do not bear blossoms in season, and in the latter part of July up until about October mildew coats the leaves.

Is there anything that can be done to eliminate the mildew, and get them to be healthy flower-bearing plants? Is the mildew caused by a parasitic condition, and responsible for the plants non-blooming condition?

Three years ago, I set out a full blooming bush, believing it might have a tendency to get the others to produce, but with no results. This new bush bloomed the second year, but this year did not, and its leaves are now coated with mildew, also.—F.A.M., Cincinnati, O.

A. Mildew on lilacs is easily controlled by dusting once or twice with sulfur in middle or late July. Incidentally, the mildew is a fungus growing on the under surface of the leaf. It is not responsible for the non-blooming of lilacs.

If your lilacs are growing in the sun and are good named varieties, they should bloom regularly, however, if planted in the shade or if old fashioned lilacs, they may be sparse bloomers. Occasional fertilization, and, if your soil is acid, application of lime will help them come into bloom. I am afraid your idea of one lilac setting an example for others is illogical. Plants are not like human beings, they have no powers of thought.

Q. What can you tell me about the small black and brown beetle which has killed most of the leaves on locusts in the vicinity of Cincinnati? The damage done this year is far greater than last, so that the whole countryside is disfigured. This bettle has done some damage on young, transplanted oak trees in spite of two sprayings.—R.A., Cincinnati, O.

A. The locust leaf miner is particularly objectionable because the adult beetle not only feeds on the leaves, but the larva acts as a leaf miner. Although there is only one brood a year, the eggs oeing laid in late May or early June, between the three weeks that the larva works and the resulting injury from the adult which emerges a week or 10 days later, the leaves of the locust are pretty well damaged.

Spraying with arsenate of lead as soon as the leaves develop in the spring should control this pest.

Building Quiz

Q. Can you tell me what I can do to stop the brick from flaking off the inside of my cellar wall?

A. Nothing will stop the flaking, but it may be retarded by coating the brick with a cement base paint, the kind that is mixed with water. You can get it from your local mason material dealer.

Q. The beams in my cellar are supported by metal columns, with the exception of one wooden support. The wooden column, which is embedded about four inches in the concrete flooring, has rotted, apparently from moisture. Can this column be cut off to the sound part and only the rotted part replaced? What should be done to prevent a recurrence of this trouble?

A. It would be best to replace the entire post. Before putting the new one in place, build a concrete base or footing six or eight inches above the floor. When the concrete has hardened and dried, coat the top of it with liquid tar or asphalt and put the wood column in place. If only a few inches of the post have rotted away, it may not be necessary to get a new post; the concrete base may make up for the shortened column.

Q. I have some full-length screens that have become warped. Can you tell me of any way that I could straighten them?

A. Place the warped screen with the concave side up on blocks of wood, and then place heavy books on the high ends of the warped corners. Allow to remain in this way until the screen has been straightened. To prevent a recurrence of the warping, apply two coats of top quality house paint on all sides and edges.

Q. Without resorting to carpentry, is there anything I can do to make my windows slide easily? Is there any sort of grease that I could apply to the wood frame?

A. Sliding windows can be eased by rubbing paraffine on the grooves. The hardware and dime stores now sell a preparation for lubricating sliding windows which is very good.

Majority Feel They've Made No Real War Sacrifices Yet

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 11—The army of persons engaged in the treasury department's present war bond drive can ask Americans to dig down into their pockets without fear of asking for too great a sacrifice. Seven out of every ten don't think they have yet been called upon to make real sacrifices for the war.

This does not necessarily mean that the fifteen billion dollar bond goal for September will be reached, but the fact remains that a substantial majority of people who are being called upon to buy bonds do not feel that the war has brought them any notable hardship to date.

Moreover, for every voter who thinks the government has gone too far in asking people to make sacrifices, there are at least five who say the government has not gone far enough in that respect.

This attitude points to one of the fundamental and curious differences between what Washington is trying to and what the people think ought to be done. Governmental leaders have since Pearl Harbor tried whenever possible to rely on volunteer programs in the war effort. The people, on the other hand, seem to want to be commanded. Note, for example, the following survey results based on personal interviews with representative men and women from coast to coast:

"In general, do you think the government has gone too far or not far enough in asking people to make sacrifices for the war?"

The vote is:

Too Far	8%
Not Far Enough	44
About Right	40
Undecided	8

Each person was then asked a second question as follows:

"Have you had to make any real sacrifices?"

The vote:

Yes	31%
No	69

There is a significant difference in attitude on that question by income levels.

The group most convinced that the government has not gone far enough in demanding sacrifices is the upper income group.

By contrast, the lower income group is the least convinced that the government should go any farther in demanding sacrifices.

Here is the way the vote by income lines up:

	Upper	Middle	Lower
Too Far	7%	7%	8%
Not Far Enough	55	48	39
About Right	30	40	44
Undecided	8	5	9

Inventory of Shoe Stocks Due Sept. 30

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—All shoe establishments were notified by the office of price administration (OPA) today that they must take inventory of rationed shoes as of the close of business Sept. 30. The stock-taking applies to retailers, ditsributors, jobbers and manufacturers.

When shoe rationing was begun, dealers were required to report their inventories at six-month intervals. This would have brought the second inventory deadline to Oct. 10. OPA said the new date announced yesterday was ordered so that the inventory would fall at a month's end and thus conform to usual business procedure.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, Sept. 12

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a splendid one for stabilising the affairs and is particularly propitious for the church, clergy, and all those of a studious or profound state of mind and character. Possessions also show increase and security. But in romantic or domestic affairs there is a separative influence of estrangement.

Those whose birthday it is will enjoy a year of excellent success in putting the affairs and the fortunes on a sound and enduring basis. There may be increase in investments, accumulations, real estate, or perhaps a legacy or substantial gift. In domestic, social or romantic attachments there is sign of separation, disruption or other regrettable event, unless faithfully safeguarded.

A child born on this day will have a studious and sturdy character, with practical ability. It may be less stable and fortunate in its romantic life.

For Monday, Sept. 13

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather conflicting one, with much promise of affairs being put on a sound and enduring basis by the use of certain peculiar talents, by mystical or psychic lead or insight rather than the keen logic or reason. Prudent and discreet conduct may avert quarrels. Many perplexing or obscure phases may negative domestic happiness or success.

Those whose birthday it is, although having stability of character and sound intentions, yet may be influenced by psychic tendencies, emotional disturbances or other obscure or chaotic proclivities. These may react unfavorably on domestic happiness or solidarity. Be discreet, prudent and reasonable, particularly in romantic affiliations and there may be some constructive benefits.

A child born on this day will have excellent qualities, which should be directed into practical channels, with regulation of psychic or mystical talents.

Have Heating Plant Checked as Help in Fuel Conservation

While food is still the country's No. 1 domestic problem, fuel is problem No. 2, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau in calling attention to the urgent need for fuel conservation.

Every heating plant, every stoker, every oil burner, and every gas burner, as well as other equipment used for space heating purposes, should be serviced by an expert heating service man sometime between now and the beginning of the heating season.

Owners of hot water or steam heating plants should have their plants checked, cleaned, and serviced by a heating and piping contractor. Owenst of warm air heating plants should have an experienced warm air heating contractor do the work.

Fuel is a strategic material. Every effort should be made to save it by efficient combustion, adequate insulation, and proper regulation of temperature. This applies to all fuels and all types of heating equipment.

The work of checking, servicing, and putting the heating plant in first-class operating condition should be done at the earliest possible moment. Prompt action is necessary in order to allow time for ordering whatever replacement parts may be needed, and to enable contractors to make the most efficient use of the available expert labor.

Not only should furnaces and boilers be checked for necessary repairs and operating conditon but other essential parts of the heating plant, such as chimneys, flues, air valves, controls, piping, and other heat distributing channels should be thoroughly inspected by a competent service organization.

DON'T BE MISLED ABOUT HOME INSULATION

There is a WRONG and a RIGHT way to install Rock Wool in new houses during construction. The RIGHT way (below) costs little, if any, more but makes a world of difference in year-round comfort and fuel savings.
Often people are told they are buying an insulated house when actually the walls and attic spaces are unevenly protected with loose rock wool as shown in upper photograph. Don't take chances. See us and get the new Johns-Manville Super-Felt Batts for a scientific insulating job like the one in the photograph to the right.

ROCK WOOL is one of the most effective insulating materials for making houses cooler in summer, warmer in winter. But it must be properly installed—thin spots in walls and attic spaces reduce its value! That is why we recommend J-M Super-Felt Rock Wool Batts at full wall thickness and proper density.
J-M Super-Felt Batts have waterproof backing. They are the finest insulation money can buy, but they won't cost you anything in the long run because they pay for themselves out of fuel savings!

Harding First Team Wins 59 to 0 in Stadium Game with Second String Squad

In four quarters of wide-open, free-flying football, dominated by long and spectacular passes, Harding High's varsity football team staged a relentless air and ground attack at Harding stadium last night to overpower the second team of Mansfield Senior High school 59 to 0. The scrimmage-type game was the first of the season for both teams.

Although the Harding first team was outmanned by a hard-charging, fast-moving Mansfield second team, especially Stew Young and Jack Koeppen, the Harding backfield ripped through the Mansfield line for long gains and scored seven times against the Mansfield "Reds".

Young, who called signals from the left halfback post, topped the Harding scoring with 25 points on seven touchdowns. Koeppen, who shared with Young honors in the Harding backfield combination, scored on the "Golden Tornado" on the double stripe to the tune of 20 points. The other two Red touchdowns were recorded by Ray Midlam, right halfback, and Capt. Chuck Fazio, second string center, who ran the opening kickoff 30 yards to pay dirt after a Red punt was blocked.

Coach Dorris reported that the first team President line averaged 180 pounds per man for yesterday's encounter while the backs came in at 157. The weight average for the entire squad figures at about 168, he said.

Although the "white" squad clicked like a savage and powerful grid unit against the number two Harding team, Coach Dorris still was skeptical, to put it mildly, about the chances of the Presidents against the Mansfield Tygers a week from tonight.

The head Harding tutor stated after the practice tilt yesterday, "The Harding first team will have to improve at least 50 per cent to beat Mansfield."

If the number one outfit has to show up that much better against the Tygers, then the second team surely must improve infinitely in final preparatory drills next week to supply Harding with the necessary reserves strength to stick through 48 minutes of football with the sturdy Mansfield gridders and still triumph.

Without a doubt, the Prexies will suffer temporary losses during the season as a result of injuries. If yesterday's practice game was prelude to Harding's reserve power in 1943 games, then the coaches should really start to pace the sidelines when second string substitutes come in for injured first-line stalwarts. If the Presidents are to enjoy the excellent season they did last season, it looks as though the number one players will be forced to play 48-minute contests unless sudden and unexpected improvement is demonstrated by the reserves.

Enormous holes, sometimes spacious enough for the entire first team backfield running abreast to shoot through, were opened by the "White" line, which was bulwarked by Elvin Beach, aggressive center and big Fazio.

One First Down for Reds

The "Reds" could make only one first down against the first-stringers and that came late in the fourth quarter after the two teams had interchanged several players. Continually when the second-teamsters were in possession of the ball, "White" linemen and line-backers plowed through to upset ball-carriers many times before they could even get under way.

Fazio and Beach seemed to be in on practically every tackle registered by the "White" outfit. As R. G. McCracken, who coached the "Reds" yesterday, put it when Beach left the game with a few minutes to play, "Boy, are we glad to see you go. You knifed through our blockers all the time."

Other standouts in the President line were Vern Orth, 200-pound tackle and Charles Strobel, a junior guard with plenty of fire and determination.

Bob Lee, a junior quarterback for the "Whites," was a demon blocker yesterday. He was in the hair of "Red" defensemen continually with his downfield blocks, which gave first team ball carriers, most of the time Koeppen and Young a green light to rumble for long gains.

Harding passing also showed up well in yesterday's game. Two of the nine "white" touchdowns were made on flips. The first pass-score came in the first quarter when Koeppen heaved to Russ Midlam in the flank around the "Red" 40 yard line. Mercury-footed Midlam took off from the point of completion and went the rest of the way for six points.

Late in the third period, Blocking-back Lee himself uncorked a left-handed pass to versatile Koeppen, who ran 35 yards to score. Lee was running laterally behind the line of scrimmage when he threw the pass.

On another occasion, in the last stanza, Young slung a 35-yard pass to Midlam, who finally was downed by the "Red" secondary deep in enemy territory.

Two of the touchdowns scored by the lanky Koeppen who tips the beams between 165 and 170, were marked up on the same deceptive reverse. In the second period, he took the backward pass from Lee and went 25 yards to score. Again near the end of the first half, Jack grabbed the pass and fooled the "Reds" once more to go 30 yards to tally a counter standing up. Instead of cutting to the inside on the play, he kept driving toward the sidelines and was not touched on his goal-line dash.

The first "white" touchdown came mid-way in the first quarter when Young streaked around right end for a 12-yard pay-dirt jaunt. In the second period an attempted punt by Rex Kilbourn, "Red" left half back who ran into constant difficulty with his boots, was blocked by Elvin Beach and fast-moving Chuck Fazio grabbed the oval to go across with the fourth "White" touchdown.

Last Period Score

Young clicked on a right-end run in the last period when he went 12-yards to score. Via the same flank-drive, Young scored the final "White" touchdown in the last quarter.

Spirit on both teams yesterday was at a high pitch. George "Whizzer" Roest, center, and Fred Forry, fullback, probably were the stand-outs for the overwhelmed "Reds."

The "Whites" chalked up six first downs to a meager one for the "Reds." The second-line gridders, whenever they were in possession of the ball, always seemed someplace in their own portion of the field. In the last quarter they finally were able to pierce the almost impregnable "White" defense sufficiently to advance into their opponents' territory.

Lineups:

WORLD SERIES PLANS TO BE MADE TODAY

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—Plans for the World Series will be completed at a meeting here today, Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, announced yesterday.

Landis said Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, which are nearing the National league championship, would attend and possibly Edward Barrows, president of the New York Yankees, who are heading toward the American league flag.

Barrows is reported to have submitted a plan for a "one-trip series." He suggested that three games be played in New York, since the American league city draws, the opening games this season, and the balance in St. Louis.

Breadon is said to be opposed to this plan. He reasons that in the event of a four game series, he would get only one contest at home. Barrows countered with an offer to let the Cardinals have the three opening games to do away with the necessity of making a second railroad jump after the fifth game.

Under normal circumstances, the series would open in the Yankee Stadium on Oct. 6, but there is a possibility that the date may be advanced one day.

Boudreau Removes Heath from Game

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11—Unruffled by jeers and close-guarded, Lieutenant Lou Boudreau was wearing war paint today after declaring Cleveland's policy to have civilians on the club, and that meant taking the manager's orders without grumbling.

The Tribe pilot made the remark after removing Jeff Heath from the lineup during the first inning of the opener of yesterday's double header with the Detroit Tigers. He explained the action by saying the outfielder had criticized an order.

The Redskins had loaded the bases on a hit by Russ Peters and walks by Orie Hockett and Roy Cullenbine when Heath went to the plate with instructions to "take" the first pitch because of Hal Newhouser's wildness. He complied, letting the first one go for a strike. Failed off another and then looked at a third strike.

Boudreau said Heath expressed disapproval of the take order on his return to the dugout and was replaced in left field by Pat Seerey.

Boudreau said Heath had not been fined or suspended and might return to the lineup today. It was the first time the 26-year-old boss of the Indians has disciplined a player since assuming the post in November of 1941.

The Redskins' double victory over the Tigers gave them a half-game margin over Washington in the scramble for second place.

Mel Harder recorded his 196th triumph of his major league career as the Indians annexed the opener 4 to 2.

Heath's absence gave Hank Edwards a chance to play in the nightcap and the rookie from Norwalk, O., slammed a ninth inning home run into the upper deck of the right field stands to give the Tribe a 1 to 0 victory. Jim Bagby allowed the Bengals seven hits as he notched his 15th win of the season.

GREY CLARKE AGAIN TAKES BATTING LEAD

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—Milwaukee's Grey Clarke scarcely is a fellow to fret too much about other players with barely the minimum quota of "at bats" beating him out for the American association batting championship. He just stands up and slugs away and lets the averages take care of themselves.

Passed up last week by Louisville's Ford Garrison, Clarke boosted his average four points in the next seven days while Garrison took a slide, and up to Thursday's games the Milwaukee clouter was going at a .314 pace to again lead the association.

Next was Willard Pike of Indianapolis, also a newcomer to the top 10 because he has just reached the 300 at-bats minimum. He was hitting .334 to take runnerup honors over Chet Wieczorek of Columbus, whose average was .330.

Following were Garrison at .329, Phil Weintraub of Toledo at .326, Augie Bergamo of Columbus at .322, Heinz Becker of Milwaukee at .320, Gil English of Indianapolis and Hershel Martin of Milwaukee tied at .313, and Joe Moore of Indianapolis at .308.

The specialty leaders were: total hits Tony York of Milwaukee with 169; doubles, Bergamo with 33; triples Hal Epps of Toledo with 12; home runs, Ted Norbert of Milwaukee with 24; runs batted in, Norbert with 106; stolen bases, Tommy McBride of Louisville, and Russ Rolandson and Herman Clifton of Minneapolis tied with 15 apiece.

Jim Trexler of Indianapolis posted 18 wins and seven losses to lead the pitchers, while Preacher Roe of Columbus claimed the most strikeout victims, 125.

Rookie Pitcher Wins Game for Milwaukee

By The Associated Press

Charlie Grimm, the Dutch master of the Milwaukee Brewers was on the Cuban side today, being particularly palsy with one Julio Acosta, his young Cuban rookie pitcher.

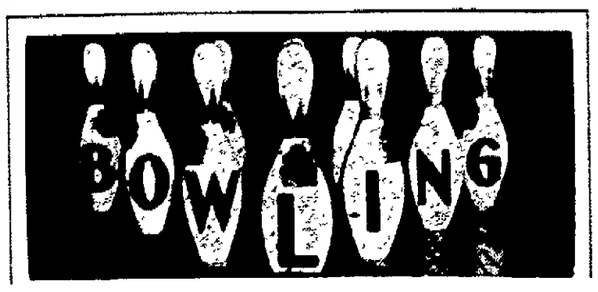
Acosta, who joined the Brewers a couple of weeks ago from Richmond in the Piedmont league pitched and batted the Brewers to a 2 to 1 victory over St. Paul in the second game of a twin bill last night.

The Brewers needed the victory to maintain a respectable lead over Indianapolis since they lost the first encounter to the Saints by a 6-4 score. The Saints staged a four-run uprising in the seventh inning of the first game to humble the league leaders. The even break put the Brews a full game ahead of the Indians, who lost.

Indianapolis couldn't do much to Ted Wilks' offerings whereas Columbus pounded out 16 hits off three Indian hurlers to defeat the Tribe, 9 to 1. The victory was Wilks' 15th.

Last place Kansas City took a pair from Minneapolis to creep up on St. Paul. The Blues copped the seven-inning first contest, 5 to 4 and made one run in the ninth inning of the afterpiece to break a 5 to 5 tie.

Toledo and Louisville split a twin bill, the Colonels taking the opener, 5 to 0, on the strength of a five inning five-run splurge. The Mudhens came back to cop the second, 5 to 3.



Three More Bowling Leagues Open Season at Lanes Here.

High scoring was a rare commodity Thursday night when the Craftsman's League opened its 1943-44 bowling season at the Marion Recreation Center and the Huber Mixed league and the Universal Cooler Men's circuit rolled their kickoff games at the Palace Recreation Center.

Lure, Craftsman bowler, led keglers of all three loops Thursday night with a 229 single game. Steve Hanovien of the Universal Cooler groups was the only bowler to rack up more than one 200 game with marks of 200 and 201.

Other high single game scores in the Craftsman league at the Marion lanes on South Prospect street were Pinkerman 200, L. Yinger 202, G. Alber 202, and Herb Petrion 216. Schaaot was the other Universal Cooler roller to chalk up a 200 or better count. He rolled 226, second best in Thursday night bowling.

Myron Gibson, male bowler in the Huber league, which is composed of both men and women pin-blasters, was tops in his league with 188. Other leading scores among Huber bowlers, who were unable to break into the 200 class, were R. Lantz 178, and S. Thompson 180.

Following are the three-game-series scores of bowlers in the three Thursday night leagues and also the standings in the Craftsman's loop:

12-Day Deer Season Set in Southern Ohio

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 11—Ohio's conservation and natural resources commission today set Dec. 6 to 18 as an open season on buck deer in three southern counties, but rescinded approval of a buck-doe hunting season in the northeastern section of the state.

The open season is the first on deer since the commission was established more than 30 years ago. Since the cost of hunting licenses is set by the legislature, this year's deer hunters will be permitted to hunt the big game without an added fee over the usual rabbit - pheasant - squirrel permit.

In announcing withdrawal of its plan to permit deer hunting in the northeastern area, the commission said:

"The action to rescind the deer hunting proposal in northeastern Ohio was taken in response to public reaction in that area.

Claridon, Marion To Play Opener in Sunday Tourney

Claridon and Marion Steam Shovel baseball teams will battle in the opening game of tomorrow afternoon's doubleheader in the Green Camp baseball tournament at the Green Camp High school diamond. Starting time is 1:30.

Cardington's highly - regarded ball nine will meet the winner of the Claridon-Steam Shovel contest in the nightcap scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

These two tilts originally were scheduled to be played last Sunday at the Green Camp field but rain forced cancellation of both.

All three of these tournament survivors sport undefeated records, each having copped two games. The Shovel Diggers defeated Agosta 7 to 1 in a first round game and topped Richwood, 6 to 0, in a second round tilt. Claridon's baseballers defeated Green Camp 9 to 4 on the first Sunday of play and then annexed a 16 to 11 slugfest win over Agosta the succeeding Sunday.

Cardington's horsehiders boast two shut-out victories in the tournament. The first came at the expense of Richwood, 3 to 0, and the second was a 4 to 0 triumph over Green Camp. This win over the Campers was a no-hit performance authored by Roseberry of Cardington.

The losers of tomorrow's two important games will meet next Sunday in an elimination contest. The following Sunday, Sept. 26, the winner of tomorrow's second game will face the winner of the elimination game in what may prove to be the championship encounter.

REDS HOLD SLIM LEAD FOR SECOND

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 11—The Cincinnati Reds continued to hold a half-game lead over the retreaded Brooklyn Dodgers today as they prepared to meet the Pittsburgh Pirates in third game of a five-game series.

Johnny Vander Meer will pitch for the Reds with Bob Klinger opposing him.

The Pirates came to town last night for the first twilight-night doubleheader ever played at Crosley Field. Pittsburgh won the first game, 9 to 6, but the Reds slipped past the three-hit pitching of big Max Butcher for a 1 to 0 victory in the second.

The first game was a free hitting affair. The Pirates got two in the first, two more in the second, and five in the seventh.

Five hits and a Pittsburgh error accounted for five Cincinnati runs in the second and the Reds added another in the third. Both teams used four pitchers. Pete Coscarart, Pirate shortstop, collected four hits in five trips to the plate to top the hitters.

Butcher outpitched Bucky Walters in losing the nightcap. Walters allowed five hits and issued five free passes.

It was the fourteenth victory of the season for Walters.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—Mel Ott has a new three-year contract to manage the Giants and, in our opinion, he'll have a three-year headache just like this year's unless he makes up his mind to become a bench manager...that isn't to say Ottie is washed up as a ball player, but as boss of the Giants he'll not only have to handle the club on the field but also plan out any steps to strengthen the club, keep tabs on minor league prospects and do practically everything but sell tickets . and nobody can handle all those jobs and play a good ball game too. Of course, the situation may be improved if the story is true that Leo Miller, the Syracuse chiefs' business manager, will move into the Giants' front office.

One Minute Sports Page—Big Ed Levy, army bound, will bid farewell to Newark baseball fans tomorrow by singing a duet with Frankie Hiller. Then the rest of the International League pitchers will render a chorus of "Working on the Levy." The Red Sox have the best night game fielding average in the American league, but as far as the Yanks are concerned that might as well be whistling in the dark. Cleveland's Al Sutphin explains that he wouldn't bring his barons into the National Hockey league this year because (1) he wouldn't desert Buffalo, which was refused Sunday night dates and (2) the league wanted a guarantee that Cleveland never would quit, regardless of losses. The Detroit Lions' roster shows 14 coaches and one athletic director—what? No Monday A. M. quarterbacks?"

Short Sport Story — When Leo Martin, former Massachusetts amateur golf champion, joined the Navy he turned over his clubs to Joe Monahan, Jr. with the admonition: "Take care of these for me until I come back." Martin, serving with the armed guard on a merchant ship, has been reported missing and Monahan, an Army trainee at Harvard, is taking the best possible care of the clubs.. He brought them out last week-end and won the C. Y. O. tournament—his first big individual triumph.

St. Mary Team To Open Season Against Delaware Willis Friday

Marion St. Mary Parochial High school's football team is host to the Delaware Senior High eleven next Friday night when the two teams square away for the first game of the season. Delaware Willis High...

The Delaware team, which is coached by Lester McCrate, who was appointed to the position at the same time that Leon Hart was named to succeed himself at Notre Dame, is now in the midst of a training period and, of course, offers no spare information.

Although most of the Delaware students will be in school this Monday, Arrangements today by Frank Mauch, member of the St. Mary athletic staff. The 1943 high school schedule is nearly complete, save one game, Mr. Mauch stated.

St. Mary officials are still scouting for an opponent either Oct. 8 or 22, which at present are open dates on the Irish schedule. Mr. Mauch said he didn't expect to find one of the dates but added he is determined to locate a scrap for at least one. Any high school who have open dates concurrent with the St. Mary idle dates are invited to contact Mr. Mauch or any other St. Mary athletic official.

St. Mary Schedule

The completed portion of the St. Mary grid schedule is as follows:

Sept. 17 — Delaware Willis, away.
Sept. 25—Tiffin Calvert, away.
Oct. 1—Richwood at Marion.
Oct. 15—Pastoria St. Wendelin, away.
Oct. 23—Linden McKinley, at Marion.
Nov. 5—Lima St. Rose, away.
Nov. 12—Crestline away.

Only two St. Mary games have been set for Harding stadium in Marion. The rest are out-of-town affairs. Therefore, school authorities would prefer any added game to be played at home.

Friday night's contest with the Delaware team will mark the ... sects a St. Mary team ... a Willis eleven.

The Irish retain "all" ... around Aug. 20 at Lincoln ... where they have been ... out ever since. The Arlington ... where the parochials ... for several years, is now ... of a housing project ... course, offers no space ... practice.

The Irish have been practicing in a clearing in the far ... section of Lincoln park. The ... scarcely enough elbow room to run off any plays, let alone ... ing forward passes or punting.

Tough Schedule

Although the St. Mary schedule for the coming season is ... to be one of the hardest ... school's history, observers ... the Irish have the stuff to ... victoriously.

Capt. Dan "Buck" Kelly, ... set, tiger-like center who ... pin-wheel of the 1943 St. M... team. The entire Irish line, ... performed during the 1942 ... practically is intact for the coming campaign.

The backfield also is expected to be a potent offensive ... this year. Dan McGinnis and ... Lawler are just two of the ... backs who are looked for to ... ever big things in a big ... the Saints this year.

Bob Murphy, back, and Ted Ring, lineman, who would have been seniors at St. Mary this year and who were first team members last season, have been ... ed. Ring left only last ... In their stead, Coach McCrate probably will have some first class material.

Coach McCrate is a graduate of Columbus Grove High school and also attended Bluffton, O., and St. Joseph, Ind., colleges.

On the Columbus Grove High team he was under the tutelage of George Niemi, who later transferred to Marion Harding, where he built a reputation as one of the Presidents" outstanding ... coaches.

STAR LANDS AT O.W.U.

YANKEES AGAIN ON A HITTING SPREE

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees, who have stayed on top the American league all season chiefly because of their superb pitching, suddenly have started to terrorize their foes with their hitting.

In winning their last three games they have made 12, 15 and 14 hits, respectively and looked like the Bronx Bombers of other years in their ability to string up big innings.

They scored six runs in the ninth inning against the Philadelphia Athletics while capturing the second half of their Labor day double header they rolled up five in the sixth inning against the Red Sox Thursday and they broke loose for seven in the eighth frame yesterday to beat Boston again 9-3.

The victim of their latest uprising was Cecil (Tex) Hughson who had whipped the Yankees in three successive starts early in the season.

The St. Louis Cardinals also won yesterday, but had to wring out a 2-1 decision over the Chicago Cubs on the strength of a double by Stan Musial in the seventh.

Cincinnati remained in second place in the national league by half a game over the idle Brooklyn Dodgers by dividing a twilight night doubleheader with Pittsburgh.

The New York Giants walloped the Boston Braves 10-2 with a 19-hit offensive while Van Mungo and Johnny Allen shared a four-hit pitching performance.

The Cleveland Indians reinforced their hold on second place in the American league by sweeping a doubleheader from the Detroit Tigers 4-2 and 1-0.

Washington whipped the Philadelphia Athletics 5-0 with Early Wynn pitching a three-hit classic and the St. Louis Browns stopped the Chicago White Sox 4-2 as Chet Laabs hit his 16th homer and Nelson Potter produced a six-hit hurling job.

Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour in "Dixie" on Palace Program

Songs of the Old South To Figure in Musical Romance; War Bond Benefit Coming Thursday.

Early Americana comes into its own in the technicolor tribute to the song and glory of the old South, "Dixie," which comes Sunday to the Palace theater with Bing Crosby and Dorothy Lamour co-starred. The film is to run through Wednesday.

Bing plays the role of Dan Emmett, the banjo troubadour who wrote "Dixie," plus many other tunes. There are six old tunes in the picture that Bing sings, including "Dixie," "Old Dan Tucker," "Turkey in the Straw," "Buffalo Gals," "Last Rose of Summer" and "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

The movie tells the story of the formation of the Virginia minstrels by Bing as Dan Emmett with Billy de Wolfe, Lynne Overman and Eddie Foy Jr. rounding out the original quartet that subsequently grew to a minstrel troupe of 40 men. New Orleans, the scene of their first triumph is where Bing meets Dorothy Lamour. Dottie plays the part of Millie Cook, unsympathetic landlady of a boarding house for deadbeat actors.

However, there's another girl in Bing's life, Marjorie Reynolds, his sweetheart of "Holiday Inn." The romance that evolves is played to the tune of six old hits and six new songs.

To play Thursday through Saturday is "The Amazing Mrs. Holliday," starring Deanna Durbin. Mrs. Holliday, portrayed by Deanna, is a very resourceful girl who evacuates a group of helpless little children from the Orient in time to escape the Japanese terror. How she finds refuge in America and is forced to masquerade as a wealthy widow provides dramatic action leading up to the film's climax. The film will be part of the program for the special war bond benefit Thursday night at which admission will be only through purchase of a $100 war bond.

Edmond O'Brien has the leading masculine role opposite the star while others in the cast include Barry Fitzgerald and Arthur Treacher.

Deanna's singing voice is heard in five selections. They are "Visi D'Arte" by Puccini, "The Old Refrain" by Fritz Kreisler and Alice Mattullath, "Mighty Lak' a Rose," by Nevin and Stanton "A Chinese Lullaby" translated by Madame Chang, and a Chinese version of "Rock-A-Bye Baby."

Betty Hutton Film Booked

"Star Spangled Rhythm" on Double Bill with "My Heart Belongs To Daddy."

"Star Spangled Rhythm" starring Betty Hutton, Eddie Bracken and Victor Moore and "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" featuring Richard Carlson and Martha O'Driscoll will start at the Marion theater with a midnight show Saturday and continue through Monday.

"Star Spangled Rhythm" is the story of an innocent gateman, Victor Moore, who brags to his son that is the head man at a movie studio. When the son, Eddie Bracken, shows up suddenly on leave from the Navy, Moore with the help of Betty Hutton enlist the aid of some 48 stars on the lot to aid in the deception.

"My Heart Belongs to Daddy" tells of a burlesque bubble dancer who meets and falls in love with a college professor.

"Dr. Gillespie's New Assistant" starring Lionel Barrymore and Susan Peters and "Honeymoon Lodge" with Harriet Hilliard and Ozzie Nelson will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday. A baffling case of amnesia occupies the attention of Lionel Barrymore as Dr. Gillespie in this picture.

"Sherlock Holmes in Washington," starring Basil Rathbone and Nigel Bruce and "Riders of San Joaquin" with Johnny Mack Brown and Tex Ritter will start Thursday and continue through Saturday.

"Something to Shout About" presents the story of a would-be song writer, Janet Blair, who finds herself defeated by Broadway until she is "Adopted" by a smooth talking press agent and an impoverished ex-vaudevillian who has turned boarding house keeper. They bring her to the attention of a producer, who becomes more interested in her possibilities as a stage star than he is in her abilities as a song writer.

Ohio Showing Cagney Film

"The Oklahoma Kid" To Show Through Thursday; Musical Picture Coming.

Now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater is "The Oklahoma Kid" starring James Cagney and Humphrey Bogart.

James Cagney, in the title role, is cast as an outlaw in the Robin Hood tradition, an adventurous youth who has become known throughout the southwest for his exploits. Eventually he is enlisted on the side of the law and order, although he has really taken the law into his own hands by wiping out a gang of vicious gunmen.

Humphrey Bogart is the leader of a band of treacherous gamblers and gunmen. Donald Crisp, in cast as the Kid's father, Rosemary Lane plays the romantic lead opposite Cagney.

"Spotlight Scandals" starring Frank Fay, Billy Gilbert and Bonnie Baker will start Friday and continue through Monday.

Frank Fay, sophisticated vaudevillian and top man of the night club circuit, and Billy Gilbert, the rotund funster, make their debut as a team in this musical. They are cast as vaudeville entertainers who battle their way to "big time" New York stage productions.

"Wee Bonnie" Baker, who became famous for her recording of "Oh Johnny," heads the cast of radio entertainers featured in the picture. The orchestras of Henry King and Herb Miller are also featured.

"Fourteen years ago, at the conclusion of my final term as Governor of Ohio, I joined with a few friends in the formation of the Motorist's Mutual Insurance Co. We tried from the beginning to merit the support of our Ohio fellow citizens by being absolutely fair and prompt in all our claim service. Our record of growth proves our success. Today, I believe there is not a better Automobile Insurance Company in the United States than Motorist's Mutual."

PEACE STOCKS RISING AGAIN

Slow Gain As Several Top-Ranking Industrials Move To Lower Ground.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 11 — Some peace stocks had a further modest rise today as a number of top-ranking industrial leaders moved into fractionally lower ground.

The whole market had a hesitant note which brokers characterized as the usual Saturday pause against the possibility of new vital happenings in the war realm over the week-end. In view of the recent big events involving Italy there was an even more general tendency to look for fresh climatic developments before the resumption of business on Monday.

Such stocks as Montgomery Ward, Johns-Manville, Woolworth, Deere and Oliver Farm, all classified as peace issues, moved up fractionally. Other shares a little ahead near the close included International Nickel, United Aircraft and General Electric. U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors and Chrysler were backward.

Rails were mixed. Santa Fe came up a bit and Chesapeake & Ohio and Alleghany Corp. preferreds, strong yesterday, had gains ranging to a point or so.

Transactions amounted to about 360,000 shares. Bonds were mixed and commodities irregular.

Improved in an uneven curb were American Cyanamid, Cities Service and International Petroleum.

Although lower on the week the general run of war stocks, in the judgment of analysts, bore up well in the face of the Italian collapse. Wall Street opinion was that the market, as a result of the July-August decline from the three-year high levels established early in July, had taken a long step in the path of readjustment on the idea that the war in Europe may end much sooner than had been expected earlier in the year.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"I AM playing a game, matching my wits against theirs," Mary went on reading with the help of the old code book. "They think I am now on their side, really trying to help them. If I can get them to trust me to flash what they will think are my own signals, perhaps you can board the pirate ship in time to rescue me. Watch for the signals!"

She laid down the paper—and looked at me appealingly.

"This is what the gold bracelet meant in her old code," she said "and of course she had to use what was nearest to what she wanted to say. But what do you suppose she means by signals?"

May Be a Signal

"Perhaps she was ... ing a signal today when she sent this message" I said slowly. "Perhaps she means for us to watch the vicinity of that restaurant. I can't help but think her prison is somewhere near there. They never would risk taking her far away from where they are keeping her."

"I think you have something there," Mary said. "And I'll bet Grandpa Spencer, without ever knowing anything about this is already planning to keep it in view."

"Go to the head of the class!" I told her, smiling with an effort because I felt that Mary and I could do with a bit of lightness. "And now were you able to do anything with the other two clues?"

"Was I!" she rejoined. "Just listen to this, coming at the end of the key words through which I dragged the 'opal ring'

"'I have made a great mistake in judgment.'" Mary read. "I never would have been on this ship if I had taken advice instead of making a decision for myself. Now if I am only given another chance when I doubt, I will put myself in the hands of my friends and rely entirely upon them.'"

A Surge of Relief

My hand went up to my throat in the surge of relief which seized me. If this meant anything it meant that Marion at last had realized that voluntarily putting herself into the hands of the gangsters to shield Carolyn, or some one else dear to her, as we believed she had done, was a terrible mistake, and that she would now hold herself in readiness to aid our attempts to rescue her instead of balking them as we had feared she might do.

Mary saw the gesture and flashed me an understanding glance of sympathy.

"I know," she said. "That got rid of the worst headache of all. It's one thing to rescue a docile damsel from the hands of brutal captors and quite another to have to awaken the gal while she's kicking and screaming to be left in her chains."

I relaxed, with the half-protesting smile I generally accord Mary's slangy phraseology, and she took up the fourth sheet of paper.

"The last is the best of the lot," she said. "'Grandma's amber necklace' stems through to this:

Signals Were Understood

"'I understand the signals you sent me awhile ago from that ship, but the others didn't and fired on you. Now I am wigwagging a message back to a strange ship I see in the offing. I hope it is a friendly one. If you get this message you will know I am still on the same ship. Try to get near enough to it to signal me again.'"

My body came to attention with my brain, and I straightened myself in my chair.

"This is indeed wonderful," I said. "It means that she read those newspaper personals we inserted. It also, I assume, tells us as best she can that she is near that restaurant, or will be in it again. But what does 'the others fired on you' mean?"

"I don't think it means anything," Mary replied promptly. "You see, these old codes were ones Marion worked out when she imagined herself a prisoner on a pirate ship, and of course I have to present them verbatim. We'll have to read her mind to get some of her meanings."

Not Hard to Do

"That doesn't seem hard to do," I said, "and, at last, we have something from which we can work. We ought to get it into Father's hands as quickly as possible, but I don't want to take any chance of the waiter overhearing."

My father's knock on the door punctuated my sentence. As I opened it, he gestured me aside, came through and closed the door.

"The waiter has just brought up the luncheon," he said. "Better come out and eat now. And what progress are you making?"

"The best," I returned. "Mary has the message translated in full, and I am sure it will help tremendously."

"That's wonderful news," he said. Then he considered a second, his eyes apparently focused upon the window behind us.

"Better leave the papers here," he said. "Lock them in the desk, Margaret. Then, after luncheon, with the waiter gone, we'll take them up."

YOUR HEALTH . . .

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Whooping Cough

MY MORNING paper carried the picture of some babies in Los Angeles being treated at the weekly immunization clinic of the Infantile Hopes Project. I gather that is a community movement to make for better health. If so, it is a most intelligent one.

The babies all look very little and young and this grapevine answers the question I get all too often, "How old should a baby be when it is time to prevent whooping cough by vaccines?" It shocks some people when the answer is, "Six months." They think the baby is too young and too frail to stand it, but Nature is lying in wait for the baby and doesn't think six months is too young for it to go through a debilitating and dangerous siege of whooping cough itself, so we can afford to imitate Nature and also to circumvent her more malignant moods.

First Hazard

The fact is the new born baby is susceptible to whooping cough probably earlier than it is to any other disease. The mother's blood protects the newborn from contagious disease, but doesn't seem to confer much whooping cough immunity. Up to six months the baby doesn't "catch" whooping cough because it isn't likely to be exposed, but after that it is a common occurrence.

This question of exposure is the one that makes the question of all immunization so pertinent just at the present time of year. Most of the contagious diseases we get in temperate climates come from contact with other human beings. In tropical countries mosquitoes and lice and bugs of different sorts spread them, but here it is ninety-nine per cent Johnny using and sucking the same pencil as Egbert.

The newborn baby naturally leads a sheltered existence. So does the child up to the age of five or six. He makes contacts from outside his own family circle, but relatively few. But when school starts, he goes into a room with all sorts of new people, coming from all sorts of new places, and he begins to brush up against them in many an intimate manner—in fact, to put it bluntly but so you can understand it, all sorts of germ swaping begins.

Good Preventive

Whooping cough is one of the most dangerous of the hazards of babyhood. I think we can say now that the modern whooping cough vaccine is successful in preventing the disease in a large number of cases. I was not always persuaded of this, so when I recommend it this recommendation has the added value of a converted skeptic. One pair of bacteriologists took their four children, vaccinated two of them against whooping cough, then after a few months squirted whooping cough germs in all four noses and throats. The two vaccinated children had no reaction, the unvaccinated ones both came down with whooping cough. I believe it is successful in all but one and a half per cent. And it is harmless. Remember that whooping cough causes more deaths than measles, diphtheria, infantile paralysis and scarlet fever combined. Three vaccinations, three weeks apart, are required.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

T. D. E.: Should urine be taken the first thing in the morning for sugar testing or two hours after a meal? Does a normal person show sugar in the urine two hours after eating sweets?

Answer: Urine passed the first thing in the morning is often free of sugar even if the person has diabetes, so urine taken two hours after a meal gives a truer idea of the situation. Best of all is a sample from a complete 24-hour specimen. Normal persons do not show sugar after eating sweets.

C. B. B.: A woman of 50 years had an attack of angina. Is the heart impaired? Should she have an electrocardiograph taken? Is it O. K. for her to take a cocktail? Is walking permitted?

Answer: An electrocardiograph would show how much heart muscle damage there is. A cocktail is good for her; it is relaxing. Some walking is all right, but it depends on how much it tires her.
